TICKUP MEN GET $100 IN ROBBERY

rospect Gas Station Attend- ant Relieved of Receipts on Way Home

(Special to The Star)

Prospect, Dec. 19—Clarence Baker, was recovering today from the ef- ts of rough treatment at the hands a holdup man when he was relieved about $100 in filling station re- pts on his way home at 10:30 o'clock night.

Sheriff James A. Deal and his depu- Vane Ireland, were summoned im- diately following the holdup. The dit and his aide were believed to e headed toward Marion in a coupe. officials, however, found no trace the fleeing pair in their trip here.

According to the story told officials, bandits parked their car near the nce & Donnelly filling station, where ker is employed, at a late hour last ht and waited until the establish- nt closed. They apparently had wledge of Baker's practice of taking business receipts home with him at ht. He was ordered to lie down in gutter, while the bandit "frisked" clothes. Taking the money, the dup man departed on the run, jump- to the waiting coupe and fled.

FORMER LOCAL MINISTER TO READ RITUAL

Brief Services at Reinterment of Hardings at Noon Wednesday

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Postmaster General New and Governor Donahey Reported Coming Here

When the bodies of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding are removed from the vault in Marion Cemetery and lowered into the sepulchre within the $500,000 marble memorial Wednesday noon Dr. Walter A. King, Ashtabula, former pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, of which President Harding was a member, will read the burial ritual of the Baptist Church. He will be assisted by Dr. U. S. Davis, present pastor of Trinity Baptist.

A firing squad from the Tenth Infantry Guard Detachment, stationed here as an honorary military guard at the temporary tomb of the president, will fire a military salute over the double grave. The service will close with the blowing of taps.

With this brief service the bodies of President and Mrs. Harding will be placed in their final resting place within the huge marble memorial erected by a grateful republic.

Only relatives of President and Mrs. Harding and close friends are expected to attend the services. Included in those who have signified their intentions of coming here for the services are Postmastr General Harry S. New and Gov. A. V. Donahey.

Move Bodies Tuesday

With a view to having everything in readiness for the services Wednesday noon arrangements were being made today to move the bodies sometime Tuesday. In view of the fact that the hermetically sealed sarcophagi each weighs 5,000 pounds officials of the Harding Memorial Association consider it advisable to have the bodies in place within the memorial in time for the service.

With an extra force on duty work of removing the scaffolding from the outside of the memorial and the structural work from the interior was being rushed today. Belief was expressed that these operations will be completed Tuesday.

Architects originally had planned to keep the scaffolding in place while the marble tomb was being pointed up and cleaned. This plan, however has been abandoned, it was said. In doing this work a swinging scaffold suspended from the top of the memorial will be used.

Remove Working Material

Removal of debris and working equipment around the memorial already has been started and it is expected that the grounds surrounding the monument will be entirely free within the next few months. Landscaping operations which have been carried on in conjunction with the construction work on the tomb will be pushed when the ground is cleared and made ready for dedication.

Services dedicating the memorial have been tentatively scheduled for next June, according to officers of the Harding Memorial Association. President Coolidge will deliver the principal address on that occasion. Other prominent government officials are expected to attend the dedicatory services.

Whether or not Tenth Infantry Guard detachment will be maintained here for a time after the actual entombment of the bodies has not been decided. Under military rule a guard is maintained at the grave of a president six months after the actual burial takes place.

Galion Utilities Clerk Resigns Post at Mayor's Request

Galion, Dec. 19—Mayor H. H. Hartman has asked and received the resignation of E. T. Yochem, clerk of the public utilities department of the City of Galion, it was learned here today.

There is said to be approximately $38,000 in outstanding accounts in the department.

Ralph Poth, auditor of the Citizens National Bank here, has been temporarily placed in charge of the department.

DARING HOLDUP

Bandits' Bullets Kill Bank Messenger, Wound Another

St. Louis, Dec. 19—Under a rain of machine gun bullets, fired into their coupe without warning by three automobile bandits, John H. Holson, messenger of the Hodiamont Bank, was shot and killed today and another messenger was wounded in a daring street holdup, in which $6,100 in cash was taken.

Later etectives investigating the robbery said they had obtained information indicating that the amount stolen might reach $15,000.

WOMAN HELD IN MURDER OF CHILD

She Really Flies To Son

MRS. E. ANGELINE LINDBERGH

Lindy's Mother is Flying Toward Mexico, Ford Plane Takes Off From Detroit

Will Spend Christmas Holidays in Mexico City with Her Famous Son; Revised Schedule of Flight Is Announced; Stops Are Scheduled

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19—Carrying Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh her message of Christmas cheer, a huge all metal tri-motored Ford airplane took off today on the first leg of the long journey to Mexico City where Mrs. Lindbergh will spent the holidays with her famous son.

Mrs. Lindbergh was accompanied on the flight by Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stout. Mr. Stout is the designer of the Ford transport passenger planes and head of the Stout metall airplane division of the Ford Motor Co.

The tentative flight schedule follows: Left Detroit 10 a. m. today for St. Louis, 485 miles, spend night; leave St. Louis Dec. 20 for San Antonio, 785 miles, spend night; leave San Antonio Dec. 21 for Tampico, 425 miles, crossing border at Brownsville, Texas, and continuing, if all is well, from Tampico to Mexico City, 220 miles.

The fourth leg will follow directly Colonel Lindbergh's line of flight.

Henry Ford's chief pilot, Harry Brooks, is piloting the plane, with Harry Russell as assistant.

Mrs. Lindbergh's revised route was announced shortly before the scheduled take-off and includes stops at Indianapolis, St. Louis, Springfield, Mo., Tulsa, Dallas, San Antonio, Brownsville and Tampico.

NEW YORK LEADING STATE IN EXPORTS

Better Cotton Prices Boost Trade of Texas About $20,000,000

Washington, Dec. 19—Despite better cotton prices which boosted the foreign trade of Texas about $20,000,000 in April, May and June, New York still led the nations as an exporting state on July 1, the Commerce Department announced today.

Exports of the five leading states for the second quarter:

New York—$188,203,647.

Texas—$113,087,116.

Michigan—$94,463,076.

Pennsylvania—$74,911,046.

California—$74,816,108.

All leading exporting states gained materially from the same period of 1926, except Pennsylvania, Texas having made the greatest percentage increase.

Total trade for the quarter amounted to $1,125,803,000, about $79,000,000 ahead of last year.

KING BEN DIES, DETAILS ARE KEPT SECRET

News of Demise Leaks Out After Doctor, Undertaker Pledged Secrecy

DEATH OCCURRED FRIDAY

Body Probably Will Not Be Embalmed; News Shocks Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 19—"King" Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David cult, is dead. This news was learned today, after the aged man, who has been under fire for years because of alleged immoral practices at the colony, died Friday morning.

Purnell's $3,000,000 religious colony was built on the faith that his followers were immortal and would never die.

"King Ben's demise was kept secret for three days. The undertaker and the doctor who attended were pledged to secrecy and none in Benton Harbor knew of the death of the self-styled seventh messenger.

The body has not been embalmed and it is probable it will not be now. News of the death of the notorious old cult leader leaked out this morning through an undertaker's assistant. It electrified Benton Harbor.

NORRIS ADDRESSES LETTER TO HEARST

Motives of Publisher in Mexican Expose Questioned by Senator

Washington, Dec. 19—Sen. George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, one of the four senators named in the Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers, today addressed a lengthy open letter to William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, severely condemning him and questioning his motives in the Mexican expose.

Recalling that Hearst, on the witness tand before the senate investigating committee, declared his personal belief that none of the senators named ever received any of the money mentioned in the Mexican documents, Norris asked:

"If you wanted to be perfectly honest with those senators why did you not state when the articles were published that you had no evidence that any of these senators were guilty and that you did not believe any of the charges against them?

"What is your motive, Mr. Hearst? You have testified before the committee that you have very valuable properties in Mexico. It is almost common knowledge that you were in favor of the overthrow of the present government. You evidently believed that if a revolution could be started it would mean financial benefit to your investments in Mexico. For the sake of making a few paltry dollars you are willing to blacken the character of honest journalists in your own profession. You were willing to cast suspicion on the loyalty and integrity of members of the United States Senate. You were willing to charge that the president of a friendly republic is a traitor to his country."

RESUME HEARINGS

State Utilities Commission to Continue Investigation of Telephone Rates

Columbus, Dec. 19—Announcement was made today that the State Utilities Commission will resume on Jan. 17 its hearings relative to its statewide investigation into the telephone rate situation. The Commission, it was stated, reserved Jan. 18 and 19 for continuation of these hearings, if needed, also, two or three days of the following week.

Counsel for the state was undecided today whether cross examination by the house of witnesses for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will mark the opening of the hearing Jan. 17, or whether H. B. Allensworth, Columbus rate expert, will be called to the stand first.

SLAY 700 SUSPECTS

Massacres Follow Defeat of Red Forces at Canton, China

London, Dec. 19—More than 700 men and women communists and suspected Communists have been slain in massacres following the defeat of the Red forces at Canton and the occupation of the city by Nationalist troops, according to a Central News dispatch from Hong-Kong this afternoon. The telegram said that only five have been actually identified as Russians, the victims including Soviet Vice Consul Hassis.

DOCKET CLEARED

No Cases Scheduled in Court Before Jan. 1

With no cases scheduled until after Jan. 1 there is expected to be little activity in Marion County Common Pleas Court before New Years Day. Several hearings set for the next two weeks have been continued at the request of attorneys in the cases.

A large number of divorce actions, usually scheduled for hearings on Monday mornings, will come before the court the first Monday after Jan. 1, it was announced. Several other actions are to be heard during the first week of the new year.

ENDS LIFE WHEN DEPUTY COMES TO ARREST HIM

Toledo, Dec. 19—Earl Miles, 20, is dead today of a pistol wound inflicted by his own hand late Saturday when Deputy Sheriff Bruce Pratt arrived at the youth's home to arrest him on the complaint of a Bowling Green girl.

Miles asked the officer if he might change clothes and was allowed to go to his room. A few minutes later two shots were heard and when the youth's parents and the deputy arrived at the room Miles was dying.

ATTEMPT MADE TO KILL FLINT EDITOR

One Ineffective Shot Fired When Writer Is Summoned to Door

Flint, Mich., Dec. 19—Two gunmen who attempted to assassinate J. R. Taylor, crime-fighting editor and general manager of the Flint Daily Journal, in his home last night, were sought today.

The men escaped after firing one ineffective shot at Taylor when he opened his front door in response to a ring at the door bell.

Flint was greatly disturbed at the attempted crime, which is similar to that in Canton, O., where Don Mellett, newspaper editor, was killed. Mellett was shot because he waged a relentless war against crime.

Taylor also has bitterly fought crime since he went to Flint seven years ago. He said after the shooting he believed gunmen paid by his enemies acquired as result of his newspaper policy had fired the shot at him.

Three small girls who saw the assailants escape were sought by police today in the hope a more accurate description might be obtained of the men.

NO DATE IS SET FOR PAVING CONFERENCE

Compromise on Proposed Improvement of Memorial Boulevard Expected

No date has been set for the conference between city and county officials relative to plans for the improvement of Vernon Heights-blvd adjoining the site of the Harding Memorial, it was announced today.

The conference was originally set for Dec. 21 but was postponed when it was announced that the bodies of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding would be removed from the vault in Marion Cemetery and entombed in the recently completed memorial.

That a compromise will be effected at the conference is considered likely by both city and county officials. The dispute arose when the city objected to being assessed the costs of the improvement and countered the county's move with a damage suit.

COLD WEATHER WILL CONTINUE, FORECAST

No Prospects of Relief in Sight Before Wednesday, Report Says

No immediate prospects for abandoning any of the additional bed clothes or laying off the coal shovel were being offered by the weatherman today.

The cold that yesterday kept many indoors will continue at least tonight and Tuesday, according to the report of the weatherman made this morning.

Six degrees above zero was the lowest point reached by the mercury last night while the highest point reached yesterday was 30. The weather one years ago was only a few degrees warmer than that of yesterday. The lowest point reached was 10 above and the highest 33.

BLOODY TOWELS, RAZOR BLADES FOUND IN ROOM

Investigators Attracted to House by Woman's Screams and Shrieks

KNOWS SOMETHING, CLAIM

Four Thousand Officers Seek Man Who Murdered Kidnaped Girl

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19—Hack almost to the spot where the hideously dismembered body of little Marion Parker was delivered to her father among the colossal manhunt after the diabolical criminal who murdered her, when police today found gruesome evidence that may prove the 12-year-old school girl was put to a torturous death in a strange, sacrificial orgy.

The new clews, which police hope will lead to the capture of the archfiend who hacked his childish captive to pieces, were discovered in a house two doors from the spot where the killer flung the mutilated little body back at the girl's father in exchange for $1,500 "ransom" money, paid in $20 bills for the safe return of his daughter.

Bloodstained towels and blood-encrusted razor blades were found in the bleak, mystery house. Bloody heel prints, the footmarks of a man, crossed the floors.

Woman Shrieks

A book—"The Murders in the Rue Morgue," by Poe—and a picture of Judas Iscariot, the betrayer of Christ, added to the ominous atmosphere of the place.

Investigators were attracted to the strange house when a woman, screaming for a priest and shrieking that she could be hanged for what she knew, fled from the place at the hour of midnight.

When officers raided the two-story brick structure and rushed into every one of its 12 darkened rooms they suddenly came upon a man sleeping on a bed from which the sheets had been removed.

Shaking the lone occupant of the big gloomy house out of an apparent stupor, detectives demanded to know what he was doing in the otherwise abandoned place.

The man, who gave his name as William Long, said he now lived there alone and mumbled the name of a "Mrs. Parker" as his landlady, whom he said, had "gone away."

Hegs for Priest

At police headquarters, where the hysterical, stocking-footed woman had been taken on a charge of drunkenness, Long confronted her and said she was his daughter.

The woman gave her name as Lillian Padley and said she was 22 years old. She said she was a telephone operator.

After being closeted with detectives for more than an hour the woman was booked on suspicion of murder and manslaughter.

"I'm not the one that killed her. I wish they'd killed me instead," she cried frantically as she stood, with dis-

REMUS IS DRAMATIC IN PLEA FOR LIFE

Judge Shook Indicates He Will Not Charge Jury Until Tuesday

Cincinnati, Dec. 19—Dramatically, like an actor in his great scene, George Remus paced before the jury box today as he made his closing argument to escape the electric chair, for the murder of his wife, Imogene.

The jury of men and women regarded him with immense interest. Utter silence prevailed in the court room. He began at 11:47 o'clock this morning speaking extemporaneously. The setting was worthy of a Belasco.

Remus flung out his arm, pointing back at the chair from which he had arisen.

"Before you stands Remus, the lawyer," Remus declared, his voice vibrating with emotion. "Remus the defendant still sits in the chair."

The jurors leaned toward visualizing that visionary figure in the empty chair.

Judge Chester R. Shook, presiding at the trial of Remus, denied the request of attorneys that he incorporate special charges in his instructions to the jury, including the appeal of Prosecutor Charles P. Taft that the "not guilty" form of verdict be eliminated.

The court indicated he would not charge the jury until tomorrow.

Closing arguments to the jury were resumed this morning.

HIGH SEAS AND EXTREME COLD BLOCK RESCUE

Hundreds of Workers, Divers and Ships Forced To Stand by Idle

WAVES MOUNTAINOUS

Fear Few Men Alive in Submarine Gasping Lives Away

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 19—Hope of saving the known six who are gasping their lives away in the cramped torpedo room on the sunken submarine S-4, a hundred feet below the surface of the pitching Atlantic, dwindled today when the hundreds of rescue workers, divers, engineers and scores of salvaging ships were laid idle by high seas and extreme cold.

Arrival of the huge air filled pontoons which were to be used in bringing the disabled craft to the surface had buoyed up spirits of the rescuers early in the day, but the workers were forced to surrender, as the day wore on, to the mountainous winter seas.

One diver whose heroism kept him in the frigid waters beyond the limit of human endurance, already has been taken to a hospital.

Six Known Alive

The best naval engineers in the government's service are assembled in one form, if possible, another miracle of marine engineering. Forty men went down with the submersible and six are known to be alive, trapped in their steel tomb on the ocean's floor. Six have signalled pitiful pleas for their release. Their supply of air is fouling rapidly and their sole hope lies in the ingenuity of the experts above them.

Air is being pumped into the swamped S-4 which lies imbedded in the ocean mud, with the hope of forcing it to the surface but as this plan held only the vaguest hope of success, engineers had considered cutting away the torpedo room with its sealed air compartment and its six men with the idea of raising this one section and its human cargo.

Divers Stand By

But even the daring plan now lies without power of execution as winter gales lash the water into a heaving, pitching sea that even barrels and barrels of oil fail to temper.

Many are dead but six men—and perhaps others—are alive in the hull of the stricken submarine. Following a message in telegraphic code to diver Tom Eadie that six of the imprisoned men were alive, a second possible rescue

GAST TO SEEK POST OF PROBATE JUDGE

Announces Candidacy; John Powell To Run for County Clerk

Interest in county politics took a spurt today when two men officially announced that they would be candidates for two county offices in 1928.

Oscar Gast, Prospect, deputy under County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, stated today that he will seek the nomination for probate judge on the Republican ticket. Probate Judge L. B. McNeal several days ago announced that he would be a candidate for reelection to his third term on the same ticket.

John Powell, clerk of Marion's municipal court, has announced that he will seek the office of county clerk of courts on the Republican ticket. So far there are no other candidates for this office.

Two other men are being considered for the office of probate judge. They are Marvin L. Wilson, deputy county clerk of courts, and B. J. Shelton, deputy county treasurer. Wilson served two terms as clerk and Shelton likewise held the office of treasurer two terms.

Gast has been a deputy under Auditor Thomas since March 14, last. For six years prior to that he served as deputy under Probate Judge McNeal. Previous to entering Judge McNeal's office he was engaged with the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. For a time he taught school at Prospect and was an instructor at the Marion Business College.

Powell has served as clerk of municipal court since the establishment of that tribunal Jan. 1, 1927. Prior to taking that position he was employed with the Osgood Co.

COMET VISIBLE

Newly Discovered Celestial Body Reported Visible by Columbia Professor

New York, Dec. 19—Dr. Harold Jacoby, of Columbia University, said today that he thought the new comet discovered by an amateur astronomer at Melbourne, Australia would be visible this evening in the western horizon. If not, it will be seen by Christmas, he says.

It was discovered by F. J. Skjellerup and since Dec. 3, it has been seen by persons in Argentina, Chile, Jamaica and other places near the equator. It is very bright, according to reports from the southern hemisphere.

STEADY UPBUILDING OF TEXTILES SEEN

Progress in Manufacturing and Marketing Practice Reported Made

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Dec. 19—While conditions in the textile industry at the yearend are unsatisfactory, substantial progress in manufacturing and marketing practice has been made, and the results of energetic attacks upon these problems will show next year.

This hopeful survey of conditions in the textile trade was made today by Frederick K. Rupprecht, president of the Consolidated Textile Corporation, and one of the best known textile manufacturers in the United States. No startling developments can be expected in the immediate future, but Rupprecht looks for a steady upbuilding of the constructive factors in the textile industry.

"Our company and the mills it operates, and for which it sells are thoroughly imbued with the importance of specialization and meeting the newer phases of consumer demand and service," said the head of Consolidated Textile Corporation, in discussing trade conditions for International News Service.

"I do not mean that there is an outlook of great prosperity for the textile industry in all its branches," said Rupprecht. "I am perfectly confident, however, that it will surmount all of its difficulties.

"Secretary Mellon has called attention to the maintenance of high wages due to increased average productivity, and lower living costs due to declining prices. This has resulted in, and will continue to sustain, a purchasing power that seems to me to be our strongest reason for expecting a prosperous new year.

L. T. COOPER MEDICINE MANUFACTURER, DIES

Dayton, Dec. 19—L. T. Cooper, 52, retired capitalist, is dead here following an operation at Miami Valley Hospital.

Cooper was the originator of two well known patent medicines. He began real estate activities in Miami, Fla., 15 years ago. Miami Shores and El Portal being developments started by him.

He was the owner of a large stable of horses which are now in New Orleans.

He was born in Germantown, Ky., and while in the insurance business there in his youth started in a small way the medicine business which afterwards brought him national fame after 1898 when he came to Dayton. He had been ill only since Wednesday.

MEMBERSHIP PETITION READ AT GRANGE MEET

Green Camp, Dec. 19—One petition for membership was read at the regular meeting of the Mt. Olive Grangers Thursday night. Arrangements were made for installing the new officers and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thibaut of Montgomery Grange will have charge of the installation. Following the business session a short program opened with a song by the grange members followed by a piano, violin and cornet selection, and a playlet, "Peter's Christmas Tree." The program closed with a song and Christmas exchange.

Here Are Best Recipes for Christmas Cakes, Puddings

While holiday cookery varies but little from year to year, home wives are always hunting recipes for traditional dainties. Their recipes get lost, or borrowed, or disappear unaccountable, or they are too young at the housekeeping game to have accumulated them. To meet all difficulties we offer the best.

John Bulls Own Plum Pudding

Chop fine one-half pound of suet, add a half pound of dry crumbs, one pound of washed currants, one pound of seeded large raisins, one pound of sugar, a level teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of candied chopped peels, a heaping teaspoonful of mixed spices, one teaspoonful each of vanilla and rum flavoring, a half pound of flour, a cupful of homemade wine, or cordial or grape juice, eight beaten eggs, and stir until all is well blended. Butter two pudding moulds well, divide the pudding, filling each three-quarters full. Cover closely and steam for five hours. If more convenient and the mould is covered closely with a water-tight cover, boil in fast boiling water four hours. See that the water is kept so it covers the pudding mould threequarters high constantly. If steamed in a bowl the pudding may stay in the bowl until needed when it is steamed again long enough to heat through, about an hour. Serve with the usual foamy highly seasoned sauce.

Military Pudding, Lemon Sauce

Chop fine a half pound of suet, add a half pound of sugar, half a pound of fine crumbs, juice and grated rind of a lemon. Stir well and fill buttered cups with the mixture and bake a half hour. Unmould on a baking dish, cover the puddings with a meringue and put into the oven to cook and brown delicately. Serve with a lemon sauce. Sauce: Three quarters of a cupful of sugar creamed with a half cupful of butter, add a beaten egg, the juice of a lemon, a little grated peel and nutmeg. Beat well, then add a cupful of boiling water and set over the teakettle, which must be boiling, and stir until the sauce is melted smooth, creamy and hot.

Rich Sponge Cake

Break a dozen eggs into a mixing bowl adding two cupfuls of sifted powdered sugar, set the bowl into a pan of hot water and keep it just at boiling point a half hour while you beat the egg mixture steadily with the egg beater. Remove from the fire and add a cupful of sifted flour, the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Flour in a buttered chimney pan and bake in a medium oven a half hour. Try with a broom splint. When done, invert the pan over a plate and let cool before removing the cake. Frost with a lemon frosting.

Pound Cake

Blend together three-quarters of a pound of butter and a pound of sifted powdered sugar. Add the beaten yolks of ten eggs, sift in one pound of flour, a half teaspoonful of baking powder and a saltspoonful of salt. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eight eggs. Pour in a shallow rectangular shaped pan lightly buttered. The frosting is made of the two remaining egg whites beaten stiff with fifteen teaspoons of powdered sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Spread smoothly over the cake while slightly warm.

Old Fashioned Plum Cake

Take three pounds of washed currants and two of chopped seeded raisins, two teaspoonfuls of mixed spices, a generous grating of nutmeg, a cupful each of chopped candied peels and citron, a cupful of homemade wine, a half cupful of honey, five pounds of sifted flour, a yeast cake melted in a cupful of water, a pound of soft butter and a pint of heavy cream. Mix well until all is blended then set to rise. When risen work down and form into loaves, put in butteed pans and when risen to three quarters of the panful, bake. Much depends on the even baking of this cake. Cover it with paper if it browns too quickly.

ys' Average Legislator presents Constituency ly About Half His Time

sions Drawn by Political Science Head of Ohio Wesleyan University Following Study of Legislation and P blished in Review

..., Dec. 19—Little relation... ...ple, exists between legislative ... public opinion, and the aver... ...lator is representative of his constituency only about half the time.

These are the conclusions drawn by Prof. Ben A. Arneson, head of the political science department at Ohio Wesleyan University here following a study of Ohio legislation, published under the title "Do Representatives Represent?" in the National Municipal Review for December which has just made its appearance.

Dr. Arneson made a study of all referenda in Ohio between 1912-1926 which have been preceded by legislative roll calls, comparing the popular vote in each district on the measure with the vote of the legislative representative of the district.

Popular vote in referenda was found to support legislative votes in but 50 per cent of the cases. Negative legislative votes were found to be more frequently in accord with public opinion in the legislator's district than affirmative votes. Ninety-two per cent of the negative legislative votes were supported in the referenda and but 41.3 per cent of the affirmative votes.

More Representative

Legislators from the two distinctly urban counties of Ohio, Cuyahoga (Cleveland) and Hamilton (Cincinnati), were found to be representative to a far greater degree than those from other counties.

"Does this mean that the urban representatives reflect more clearly the views of their respective constituencies, or is it rather, that the bosses of the cities are so powerful both over the representatives and over the electorate that the two are likely to express similar views?" is the question Dr. Arneson raises on this point. "With the unusually effective boss leadership which exists in Cincinnati and in Cleveland it is likely that the latter is the case rather than the former. Nevertheless, the public opinion of an urban community is likely to be more perfectly mirrored by its representatives than is the case in a rural constituency."

"But six of the 25 measures passed by the legislature and referred to popular vote have been carried in the referendum, although the proposals were such as to receive the support of careful students of government, Dr. Arneson points out. The six successful measures were no more worthy of support than practically all the others.

Not a Rubber Stamp

"In Ohio, which is a typical state, the electorate is not eager for innovation," says the Ohio Wesleyan political science head, pointing out that to give greater popular control over the process of amending the federal constitution would be a movement toward conservatism.

"All in all, this brief study points to the dislike of the electorate for change, especially in the non-urban areas, and indicates that changes involving taxation and finance or new ideas in governmental machinery are likely to be given a cold shoulder by the voting public.

"Moreover, we are led to the belief that the state legislator is far from being a rubber stamp for the voters."

A more clear-cut public opinion has existed in Ohio on prohibition than on other questions during the period studied from 1912 to 1926, Dr. Arneson also points out.

SEVEN PERSONS HURT

Cleveland, Dec. 19—Seven persons working at the Adams Printing Co. on Christmas rush orders for calendars were severely injurted yesterday when an explosion of gas wrecked the plant. Marian Slezak, the most seriously injured may die. Flames followed the blast, and it took firemen two hours to subdue them. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

FORD WON'T POSE

Toledo, Dec. 19—Henry Ford and a party of five motored here yesterday for dinner, the trip being made in one of the sedans turned out by the Detroit automobile manufacturer. When asked to pose for a picture Ford declined, saying it was a holiday.

CHREST ARRESTED

Dover, Dec. 19—George Chrest, theater owner, was arrested for the fourth time yesterday, and two other theater proprietors were arrested with him as Dover passed another Sunday with motion-picture shows. Chrest, E. F. Allman and Roscoe Speidell will be arraigned before Mayor P. J. Groh today charged with operating their theaters in violation of the Sunday closing act.

SIDNEY FIRE LOSS AMOUNTS TO $200,000

Piqua and Wapakoneta Departments Called To Control Blaze

Sidney, Dec. 19—Fire, originating from an overheated furnace, destroyed the Dieck office building here yesterday and damaged adjoining structures. The loss has been estimated at $200,000.

Fire departments from Piqua and Wapakoneta were summoned to help control the blaze, which for a time threatened an entire business block.

Business houses located in the destroyed structure included the Vertner Hardware Co.; E. T. Custenborder & Co., grain dealers; H. T. Reuse & Son, insurance; Richman Neville Co.; Lowramas cigar factory and office; Hess & Hess, law offices; J. E. Russell, law office, and Charles Hess, justice of the peace.

The Sidney Clothing Co., occupying an adjoining building suffered an uncomputed loss.

Daily Proverb—"It is easier to prevent ill habits than to break them."

Anyway, it's going to be some job to convince the thugs, who held up the business office of the University of Chicago and got away with $32,000, that education doesn't pay.

Three thousand have volunteered to accompany Byrd on his South polo trip. Man has changed a lot in the passing centuries, but the spirit of adventure is yet strong in us.

Commander Byrd says he takes off his hat to Lindbergh. Never before has the commander been enrolled in an army of such vast proportions as that which he thus joins.

Leaders of the French Socialist party insist that they are enemies of the Russian soviets despite the revelation that their party figures in Moscow's monthly payroll. Of course they are. Moscow is paying them for hating her.

It is not so surprising that the state of New York has been repeatedly defrauded through her workmen's compensation act. There are always the vultures who take advantage of any and all plans for the benefit of victims of misfortune. We doubt not that we have them here in Ohio.

In declining to become a member of the "America First" foundation, President Little, of the University of Michigan, told Mayor Bill Hale Thompson, of Chicago, that running the words of Washington, Lincoln and Franklin on the foundation's advertising matter was a greater outrage than to write books about them tending to show that they were normal human beings as well as divinely inspired. They way poor, old Bill is getting slapped makes us almost sorry for him.

New York state seeks a constitution short and sensible. If she really seeks a constitution like that, she should select a man and turn over to him the job of writing it. She'll never get it through a constitutional convention, which is almost invariably loaded up with a fair proportion of freaks with pet hobbies of their own.

Dr. William J. Mayo, of Rochester, Minnesota, told a gathering up in Chicago that he "could count on the fingers of one hand" the men he would trust to operate on members of his family or himself for any sort of a surgical operation, and he stated further that he was not one of the five he had in mind. It's only fair to state in this connection, it seems to us, that the doctor doesn't know all the surgeons in the country or the ability they may possess.

The Nanking government has severed both diplomatic and commercial relations with soviet Russia and all the consuls, commercial agents, banks and even the red mercantile marine of the latter have been ordered to get out of Nationalist China by Thursday night. Seemingly the treachery of Russia has disgusted all the powers, big and small, of the world, with the possible exception, of course, of Senator Borah.

The Lights of Christmas Eve.

A beautiful custom brought from over the sea by our forefathers and since followed in many localities throughout the land is that of showing lights on Christmas Eve. The practice of the people of the Old world, or at least the practice of the people of so much of it as embraced the Christian faith, was to place a lighted candle in the front window, or windows, of their homes, not only as an evidence of their faith, but also to add to the cheer of the gladdest holiday in all the year.

For many years the plan followed for ages over there was utilized over here, and in some localities it still prevails, but here in the New world where so many of our homes are of wooden construction and window draperies are the rule, a lighted candle in a window is something of a fire hazard. However, since electricity has come into general use in American homes for lighting purposes the danger of fire from the following of the beautiful custom has largely, if not quite entirely, been removed. The result is that, go where one will in urban America on Christmas Eve, one finds this evidence of Christmassy cheer. In some localities, window lights are shown, in the many colors the use of electricity has made possible, for the entire week before Christmas, while in others the custom is largely confined to the displaying of lights on Christmas Eve and Christmas night.

For many years it has been the custom of Marion people to add still further to the Christmas cheer by lighting up their homes and rising their blinds that the light within may shine without and illuminate the streets and avenues. Many use lamps in their windows, some show illuminated wreaths and here and there are Christmas trees on front porches or lawns bright in vari-colored lights. The result is that residential Marion is a thing of beauty on Christmas Eve, so much so that the viewing of the lights has long been a treat enjoyed by our people, the more easily enjoyed in this day and age when the use of the motor car is so general.

What Do Women Want?

How sincere is the desire of woman for one moral standard for men and women? Volumes might be compiled out of references to "the single standard" which have appeared in type in recording the views and advocacies of its women advocates, but no definition has been offered regarding what the principles of the single standard mean.

This was made manifest at the Chicago session of the meeting of the National Women's council in New York City last week, when Dr. Katherine Bement Davis made her women auditors fairly gasp by a verbal bomb she exploded when she asked them if they knew the meaning of equal morals for men and women, and, if so, would they advocate equal standards for both sexes in the United States.

Speaking as general secretary of the bureau of social hygiene and chairman of the committee of equal moral standards of the council, Dr. Davis said the time was at hand when women should know for themselves what they were advocating and, having determined that, place themselves on record as to their definition of equal morals.

"The time has come when women in general should consider what we mean by equal moral standards," said the doctor.

"This is no time for prudishness. Do we wish to have the standards equal?

"Shall men adopt standards which include pre-marital chastity and fidelity as has been demanded of women in the past or are we willing to grant women the same privileges of wild-oat sowing and clandestine relations after marriage?

"Are we going to fix a new standard for both groups somewhere in between these two extremes?

"Equal moral standards do not mean much without definition.

"A convention can not do more than take back to the constituent organizations a thought for its members along these lines. I make a plea to women's clubs throughout the country to consider this subject for intelligent discussion."

We do not profess to be able to say what was in the mind of Dr. Davis when she made the hundreds of delegates present sit up and take notice by her introductory utterances. We can not even make an intelligent guess regarding what her views upon the subject of an equal moral standard for the sexes may be, whether she may look with favor upon one standard or two. But it doesn't require much of an intuition to grasp the fact that the doctor feels that women have been doing far too much talking about the desirability of attaining a goal without knowing, or even considering, what that goal may be. To make use of an expression which we occasionally have heard some of our friends who sometimes woo the goddess of chance over the green cloth utilize, it is apparent to our mind that Dr. Davis is of the opinion that it is time for women to quit "four-flashing" about the single-standard business and put their "cards on the table;" that she holds that it is not good sense, good policy or good morals for women to keep on advocating something without being willing to tell the world what they are advocating; without frankly stating whether they want men to come to their standard, are willing to meet them half way or are ready to go the whole distance to the standard of men.

"Big Cold Wave in the Northwest," reads a headline. Can it be that last summer is coming back for a return date?

It's bad enough for some of our friends to have to labor the way they do in the hope of picking up a respectable game without Bobby Jones chasing about and proclaiming that "golf is to a large extent played between the ears."

Rev. R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, has asked the Detroit police department for a permit to carry concealed a revolver or pistol, which rather gives a new meaning, at least new to us, to "the church militant."

The Windy City having undergone another change of mind, it is announced that the "Second Chicago World's Fair" will be the "greatest international exposition" ever held anywhere. Maybe she intends to place "Big Bill" on exhibit.

President Bukharin, of the Communist Internationale, denounces American workers as the aristocracy of labor, holding that the high wages they receive and the fine living conditions they enjoy contribute an injustice to the rest of the labor world. We are perfectly willing to hear the Communists continue along this line, but it certainly shows a mighty queer quirk in the Bolshevik mentality, or what with them passes for mentality.

Dr. Woolley, of the joint British museum and University of Pennsylvania expedition, reports that he has unearthed a 6,000-year-old tomb of a Prince of Ur. At times we are inclined to wonder if scientists are justified in thus disturbing the last resting-places of the dead. Coming right down to brass tacks, why should not the tomb of one dead 6,000 years be just as sacred against despoliation as that of one but recently passed away?

Poems That Live.

LOVE HATH ITS PAIN.

Love, hath its pain and its drear delight
Blooms in the dusk and aching in the night
Shall yield unto the dawn a blessed fruit.
The branches of the vine and its dark root
Partake of life and death in equal part.
The frost of winter, fastened on the heart
Shall melt to freedom at the flush of spring
"O Love," I said, "unfold to me this thing—
Fathom the reason of thy joy and pain
"Wouldst have," Love said, "all sunshine and no rain?
Wouldst have all laughter and not any tears?
All plenty and no lean and hungry years?
Shall cherry blooms be white the whole year through?
Shall grasses be forever bright with dew?
"Oh, nay," Love said: "How sweet the brimming cup
When we have come a thirsty way to sup
How sweet your trembling silence on my breast
When we have come a weary way to rest."

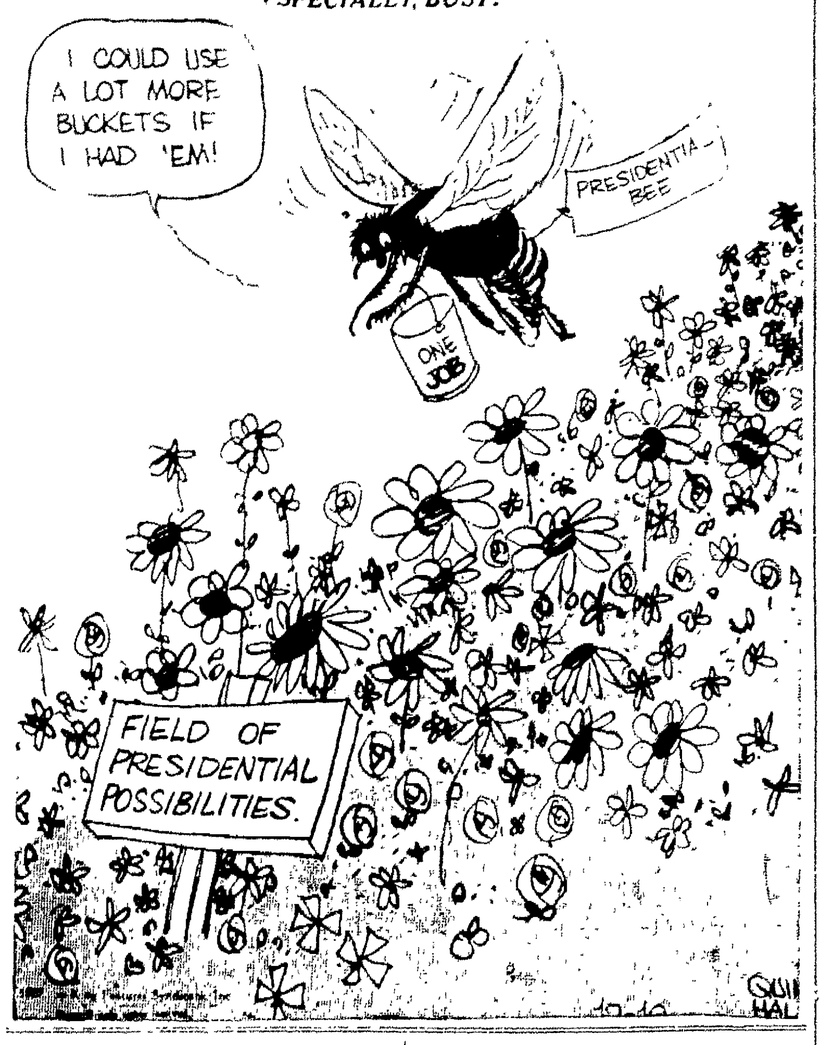
FSPECIALLY, BUSY.



Weaning the Baby.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Among the letters I get are many relative to the weaning of the baby. The exact time to start depends upon the individual case, but no matter when it takes place the weaning period is a critical time in the history of the child.

If the mother is healthy and the child continues to gain in weight it may be kept upon the breast beyond the time when the average child should be weaned.

In every household there should be a set of scales. There is no surer test of the welfare of the infant than its steady increase in weight.

In the last analysis the child itself must determine the change in feeding. This is true, not alone in fixing the weaning time but it is just as true all the rest of the time. If the infant stops gaining weight or has repeated attacks of vomiting and diarrhoea and, particularly, if it begins to lose weight, something is wrong in the feeding. There should be an immediate investigation to locate the trouble.

The symptoms I have mentioned may come from irregular feeding. They may result from feeding the wrong quantities of food, either too much or too little.

The first thing to do then when there is loss of weight and unpleasant symptoms occur is to study the hours of feeding and the quantity of food given.

No matter what the age of the child may be, if regulating the hours of feeding and quantity of milk given do not restore the health, the child must be weaned at once.

It is bad practice to continue breast feeding after the child is a year old. Ordinarily, it should be much earlier than this, usually at the age of nine months.

It is needless to say that the health of the mother is a factor which can not be overlooked. Sometimes a woman who has been perfectly well will develop ill health after the birth of the baby. If the mother is sick or feeble, breast feeding should be abandoned.

In every case common sense must rule.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

L. E. Q.—What do you advise for psoriasis?

A.—In its cure first attention must be given to digestion. Constipation is an important factor and, even though the bowels move daily, there may be sluggishness. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

Y. O. Q.—How can I clear my face from pimples and blackheads?

A.—Correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Almost always constipation or at least sluggish bowel movements are present. Correct this condition. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. F. Q.—What will clear up pimples?

A.—Careful diet and regular elimination should be most helpful. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat question.

THE EXPANSIVE BENITO.

Fight with France? Pouf; it is unthinkable! Are we not brothers, Latin brothers? I, Benito, may quarrel a little with France, but we quarrel as brothers quarrel, and are always friends at heart. So says Mussolini. He says it in an interview, published in a Tunis newspaper and relayed to Paris, to the astonishment of all Parisians.

And, adds Benito, why limit the Latin brotherhood to France and Italy? There are Portugal and Spain, Latins too. And there are the Spanish-speaking and Portugese-speaking republics of Latin America, with just as good a Latin citizenship as the four Latin nations of Europe. Why not all get together, stand shoulder to shoulder, establish not a great alliance but a natural brotherhood—and, incidentally, make faces at the Monroe doctrine?

Thus speaks Il Duce, and the world wonders. The League of Nations council has scarcely adjourned, leaving behind a vague promise that Italian-French relations are soon to be vastly improved by conferences of notables at Rome or Paris. Is it Mussolini's way to wait for conferences when he has made up his mind to do a thing? Not at all. He decided to be friendly with France, and the best way to be friendly is to be friendly. It is the economical way; it saves railway fare and oratory. The expansive Benito merely opens wide his arms, beckons La Belle France to his embrace, and announces that there is room in the vastness of his brotherly affection for Hispania, Lusitania and fifteen or sixteen assorted Americas.

It is a grand gesture. And, as he intimates, blood is thicker than water. But the achievement of Pan-Latin brotherhood is a big order, even for a big man. Probably Mussolini is talking merely to draw a crowd. He is serious enough in seeking French confidence, but there is buncombe in inviting South America to look only to Rome and Paris for light and joy and guidance. Madrid and Lisbon would not like such a brotherhood or such a hegemony. And probably almost every one in Latin America, regardless of occasional irritations and misgivings, would prefer the solid old Monroe doctrine to the absent treatment variety of protection which might be afforded by the great Black Shirt of the Quirinal. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CHINA AND THE SOVIET.

It is apparent that General Chiang Kai-Shek, who has been chosen to save the Nationalist movement in China, has a clear understanding of one of the causes of the turmoil in that country. His first announcement is that unless soviet Russia "discontinues its intrigue against China," to quote his words, "the Nationalist government will be compelled to break off relations."

This is what Great Britain has been compelled to do. It is what the United States has anticipated by its failure to recognize the soviet government. The powers in control of Russia never have reached a state of international consideration to keep from meddling in other countries by the means of propaganda spread by the Third Internationale. Instead of attending to the business of bringing Russia up to the standard of a nation fit to enter the society of nations, the soviet has persisted in its policy of trying to create revolutions in other countries. From the very first of the popular movement in China to break the dynastic power that has held that country back for centuries, the regime in Russia has interfered there to keep up the internecine strife, even to sending military representatives there to help one side or the other as seemed to its advantage.

There will be sympathy with General Chiang, who has accepted a tremendous task. Great Britain and the United States will watch the progress of his contest with the soviet. If he has the grit to carry out his threat there will be world-wide interest in the reaction of soviet Russia, and the extent to which that government will go to embarrass him.

Another declaration of General Chiang has great interest for the United States. He has said that he welcomes the move of President Coolidge to send a delegation of business men and statesmen to China to study the treaty situation with a view to straightening out that tangle and to break the treaty deadlock which is blocking the full development of mutual trade relations between the two countries. It is hoped that General Chiang is sincere in this stand and that soviet Russia will not be able to bring influence to bear to prevent the desired restoration of understanding.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE PHYSICALLY UNFIT.

A British scientist, Professor A. M. Low, of London, takes up the cudgels for the "physically unfit" and attacks the contentions of the eugenists in rather a novel way. His philippic was called forth by the recent action of a London agent of the county of Somerset in condemning the marriage of people afflicted with tuberculosis. This, Professor Low declares, is wrong and inconsistent with modern science, because it is paramount to an assertion that the body is more important than the mind. Love, he points out, is—or should be—a mental attraction, and should be encouraged regardless of so-called physical disabilities. "We should pay more attention to unborn thought," says he, "than to unborn bodies." He calls attention also, to the indisputable fact that a great many valuable citizens have been diseased in some way and in conclusion he says that to make laws as to who should marry and who should not is impracticable, because "love is of a greater force than the man-made law."—Philadelphia Record.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Good work does attract the eyes of the world and it is not forgotten. Tom May, famous cartoonist of a quarter century ago, died in Detroit the other day. He was nearly seventy and he had done little work for many years. Once he drew a cartoon picturing a child on Christmas morning with an empty stocking. That was a whole city reckoned the success of the cartoon. Year after year at Christmas time, the cartoon is reprinted. It is used on letter heads and on folders. It is used in magazines and newspapers. The good work, the able work, of Tom May goes on and will go on through the years.

When you are offered a good job don't ask too much time to "think it over." Big business men don't care to hire men who do not know what they want. It makes a good impression to be able to see pretty clearly the value of a proposition very soon after it is made.

C. A. Dice, authority on business from Ohio State university, speaks well when he says the tradition that a presidential election is not a good business year is merely a myth. All signs point to a great business year in 1928. To expect anything else is to refuse to face the facts. We have too many myths in our lives. We pay too much heed to rumors. We abide too much by tradition. The thing to do with a myth is not to fear it. Forget it.

There is some justification for the complaint of an old New Yorker in a morning newspaper that progress has obliterated the picturesque nooks of the city—leaving it a standardized as a row of brown stone fronts. There are, for instance, no more spots such as Paradise alley, which inspired the famous street song, "The Sun-shine of Paradise Alley." HOPE TO SAVE CREW OF SUB DWINDLING

High Seas and Extreme Cold Force Rescue Workers To Stand By

... ger came tap-tap-tapping early today ... Charles Scott, another diver working ... the stern of the helpless sub.

Sounds Inside Faint

The first message came from the for- ... ard torpedo compartment.

Although the sounds heard by Scott ... e quite faint, they were taken to in- ... ate that others of the 40-odd men ... d officers were alive. Scot was un- ... le to decipher the tapping into a mes- ... ge, however, and it was pointed out ... at the faint hammering might be the ... inging of a chain.

The hammering heard by Eadie, a ... ectable message from the grave—tap, ... tap, came forth from within the ... stery of the S-4, in telegraphic code.

It told the world that six of the 40 ... d men and officers of the helpless sub, ... ed on—102 feet below the water sur- ... ce. Perhaps more are breaking. The ... eteran naval diver, Eadie, hero of the ... rage operations on the sunken S-51, ... ained an answer to his hammer ... ping on the sheath of the undersea ... el after several attempts had failed.

Diver Overjoyed

"They have answered my signals and ... y live," Eadie exclaimed, dripping ... appiness, as he stepped from the bot- ... of the sea.

The first question which Eadie tapped ... code to the imprisoned men was:

"Is gas bad?"

"No, but air is," the men answered. "How long will you be?"

"We are doing everything possible," ... die replied. "How many are there?"

"There are six; please hurry," was ... he answer.

The giant crane, the Century, was ... anding by today, ready to attempt to ... ise the living and the dead from the ... ean floor where the submarine was ... rled in its collision with the coast ... guard cutter Paulding Saturday after- ... noon.

Sea is Choppy

But the sea is storming for its vic- ... tims. The wind is a growl. A choppy ... sea, making little mountains and slant- ... ing valleys, is running. Experts are ... dubious about any hawser standing un- ... der the strain of such conditions.

But the fleet of naval rescue ves- ... sels between Cape Race and Wood End ... are feverishly preparing.

Air—preciously lighter than water— ... is flowing into the ballast tanks of the ... crippled sub. It is hoped to displace ... enough water in the sub to lighten the ... ship and send it to the top. At least, ... it will make the effort of the cranes and ... the pontoons easier.

A further somber conversation with ... the imprisoned men on the S-4 was re- ... corded held when the submarine S-8, ... her sister ship, wigwagged that oscil- ... lating signals sent to the sunken craft ... had been returned.

Speculate on Dead

"S-4 answers oscillating, tell noth- ... ing but we are now attempting to talk ... with them," the S-8 reported.

Admiral Frank Brumby sent a radio ... to Washington that six of the en- ... tombed were alive, following Eadie's ... report.

Capt. E. J. King, in charge of rescue ... operations, said:

"Certain men are alive in the S-4. ... Everybody in the battery compartment ... is certainly dead. Just how many died ... altogether is a matter of speculation.

"There may have been three or four ... men on duty in the battery chamber. ... But the crew in quarters are there and ... perhaps there were more.

"The S-4 is now lying on a muddy ... bottom, 101 feet long. We have at- ... tached a line to it and will now con ... centrate on pouring air into her."

Use "Birdcage"

They are using an innovation in ... diving operations in this latest naval ... tragedy. It is a "birdcage" to lower ... the divers, a square platform with an ... iron post at each corner.

Eadie, on his historic trip below ... which established communication with ... those alive, was dropped by stages to ... the water bottom.

A telephone line with a microphonic ... attachment parallels the diver's cable. ... A youthful sailor with an ear-piece and ... a mouth piece, sat athwart the top ... deck of the Falcon. He must listen, ... listen without fail, on pain of ... court martial.

Eadie had been down about 15 min- ... utes when the fouth stiffened. Officers, ... alertly watching his face, hurried over ... to him. They heard him shout ex- ... citedly down the tube to Eadie.

"They're answering."

His superiors heard him repeat his findings and then tuned in themselves. Tap, tap, tap came from the microphone glued to the sunken submarine's side.

Another Diver Sent

Eadie on his return to the surface an hour later also reported that the bat- ... tery compartment on the starboard side of the S-4 was in a bad way and the conning tower had been born off.

E. J. Carr, another diver, was then sent below to prod into the conning tower and attach an air hose to dis- ... place the water.

"The Paulding was patrolling in the vicinity of Cape Cod on the afternoon of Dec. 17," said Capt. W. Malloy of the coast guard cutter Tampa in de- ... scribing the collision between the de- ... stroyer and the submarine.

"There was good visibility and a good wind. The first intimation of the presence of a submarine was when her conning tower and periscope emerged from the water directly in front of the Paulding. It was too close for the Paulding to avoid, though the helm was shifted and full speed given.

Struck at Tower

"The Paulding struck the submarine at the conning tower which ripped a long hole in the underwater body of the Paulding. Then, the submarine, rolling over, showed her stern and sank. The Paulding immediately low- ... ered a life boat for use in case any survivors emerged from the sunken boat and dropped a buoy to mark the spot. The Paulding was filling with water but managed to get into Pro- ... vincetown Harbor.

Captain Malloy said that the Paul- ... ding was on patrol duty and going at the time about 15 knots per hour. He said that the submarine's battery com- ... partment probably was pierced.

Lieut. Commdr. J. S. Bayless of the Paulding said:

"Ensign George Phannemiller was on watch and the Paulding was doing 15 knots per hour and so far as is known was going at one-third speed. Phanne- ... miller sighted what he thought was a fishing stick, used to mark nets. The helm was shifted to avoid the stick and it was then that Ensign Phanne- ... miller sighted the conning tower of the submarine. The crash followed and the submarine turned over and sank bow first at an angle of 45 de- ... grees."

WOMAN IS HELD IN MURDER OF CHILD

Investigators Attracted to House by Woman's Screams and Shrieks

... bereled hair, before a grim desk ser- ... geant.

As she was being led away to her cell weeping, the woman begged that a priest be sent to her.

She would talk to no one else, she insisted, repeating over and over that she had something fearful to tell about "that little girl."

Four thousand police officers of southern California today continued their search for the kidnaper and slay- ... er of the child, whose mutilated torso Saturday night was returned to her father, Perry M. Parker, bank official, upon payment of $1500 ransom.

Find Threat Note

Excitement, already, at white heat, was intensified by the finding of a note threatening the life of Marjorie Parker, the slain girl's twin-sister. This note, police reported early today, had been placed by a man in a fire alarm box in Hollywood, and the alarm turned in. A heavy guard was immediately thrown around the Parker home.

All police officers in Los Angeles have been placed on 16-hour duty in the search for the slayer of the little girl.

Citizens have offered a total of more than $50,000 reward money for the ar- ... rest and conviction of the slayer. At periods during yesterday and last night appeals broadcast by radio brought in an average of $50 a minute. Today is expected to see the rewards reach a sum unprecedented in the history of this region.

A suspect, one of scores questioned, is still being detained here. He is held on suspicion of grand theft. Police withheld his name, but he was said to be the 25-year-old son of a local physician. It was said he had been suspected of crimes against children in the past.

Release Suspect

Release of a suspect held at Las Vegas, Nev., was directed in a telegram sent by local police late last night. This man, proceeding by stage from Los Angeles to St. Louis, was detained at Las Vegas because of information he paid paid his fare in $20 bills, the en- ... tire amount of the $1500 ransom money being in bills of that denomination.

The suitcase was found a block from the place where, Saturday night, the child's father paid over $1500 to re- ... cover his daughter, who he believed, still was alive and uninjured. In the suit- ... case were found towels stained with blood, newspapers bearing similar stains, wire thread like that which had been wound around the child's neck, and a pad of paper similar to that which had been used for the notes sent by the kidnaper to Parker.

LINDY'S MOTHER ON HER WAY TO MEXICO

Will Spend Christmas Holidays with Her Famous Flying Son

Mrs. Lindbergh's reception in Mexico. Her first stop in Mexican territory will be Tampico and there port officials will provide facilities for the final four- ... hour hop to the Mexican capital.

When she arrives here the mother of the young flier will be greeted by officials and representatives of the fam- ... ilies highest in Mexican society.

Colonel Lindbergh retired last night after a day of considerable activity not the least of which was one of the best bull fights ever put on in a city where bull fights are regular occurrences.

The young aviator attended the fight as the guest of President Calles and sat in the president's box near the bar- ... rier.

There is no public commendation more splendid than being elected to office.

ELIZABETH RANDALL DIES AT SON'S HOME

Funeral Services for Aged Woman Held at Prospect Church

Richwood, Dec. 19—Funeral services were held at the Prospect Baptist Church this afternoon for Mrs. Eliza- ... beth Randall, 79, who died at the home of her son, Carl, here Saturday after- ... noon at 1 o'clock. Burial was made in the Prospect Cemetery under the direc- ... tion of S. R. Sanders. Rev. R. W. Pierce of Richwood officiated at the service.

Mrs. Randall died after an illness of five days of acute myeardilis. She had been living with her son for a number of years. She was born May 29, 1848, and had been a member of the Prospect Baptist Church for 50 years. Two grandsons survive with the only son, Carl.

FORMER MARION WOMAN MEETS DEATH IN FALL

Word of the death of Miss Helen Vose, formerly of this city, at her home in Boston, Mass., has been received by Mrs. Harry A. True, E. Church-st. Miss Vose, who moved from this city about 12 years ago, was a cousin of the late Harry True. She met her death in a fall downstairs. Henry True left for Boston yesterday.

British M. P. Looks Far into Future in Trade Conditions Study

London, Dec. 19—Maj. Crawford, Liberal M. P., has returned to Eng- ... land after a tour of most of the South American states, during which he made a study of trade conditions in the major cities of that continent.

Major Crawford said he was par- ... ticularly impressed with the immense resources of South America. He said that British merchants were neglect- ... ing splendid opportunities by not dev- ... eloping British trade there.

"Buenos Aires is stiff with motor cars," Major Crawford said, "but hardly any are British. Every- ... where I went, I was asked the same question: 'Why don't you develop trade with us?'"

Major Crawford said he believed that the establishment of commercial treaties with the various South American states, and more frequent visits by prominent public and busi- ... ness men, would go a long way toward helping British trade in that con- ... tinent.

MARY C. MAIDLOW APOPLEXY VICTIM

Services To Be Held at Daughter's Home Tuesday Morning

Apoplexy was attributed as the cause of the death, at 3:40 yesterday after- ... noon, of Mrs. Mary Catherine Maidlow, 68 years of age. Her death occurred at the home of her son, Frank Maidlow, 535 Bartram-av, and followed a year's illness.

Funeral rites will take place at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. L. B. Llewellyn, 600 N. Prospect-st. The body will be laid to rest in Christ Cemetery at Leipsic, O.

Mrs. Maidlow had made her home in Marion for the past 15 years and had been employed as a nurse. She was born in Findlay, Oct. 11, 1859 and was the daughter of William W. and Pauline Bowman Cartwright, both na- ... tives of Ohio and both of whom are dead. She was united in marriage with G. P. Maidlow, who survives, April 14, 1880. Her lodge affiliations were with the American Insurance Union and Sos- ... nowski Rebekah Lodge.

The following close relatives survive, two daughters, Mrs. Llewellyn, Mrs. B. D. Betz, both of this city; five sons, Frank Maidlow, at whose home she died, S. A. Maidlow of Adrian, Mich., Dick Maidlow of Pandora, O., William Maid- ... low of Ottawa, O., and P. L. Maidlow of Baldwin Park, Cal.; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Luellen, Marion, and two brothers, J. S. Cartwright of Ottawa and H. A. Cartwright of Worland, Wyo.

ARREST THREE MEN FOR PETIT LARCENY

Bottle of Toilet Water Snatched from Counter in Drugstore

A bottle of toilet water taken from the counter at the Cliff Lower drug- ... store on W. Center-st early Saturday night resulted in the arrest of three men, who are being held at police head- ... quarters on a petit larceny charge.

According to the police, James Monk, 48, who gave his home as Columbus, was discovered by one of the clerks in the act of taking the bottle. He was held until the arrival of the police and was then locked up at police headquar- ... ters. A half hour later, two men giv- ... ing the names of Mike Burnett, 37, of Butte, Mont, and Harry Hay, 57, were arrested near the store as accomplices of Monk.

The Story of a Girl Who Tried To Cheat Love

BY GILBERT ROGERS

CHAPTER 21

...od there facing him, swaying ...e platform, holding on as if ...anging on for life itself. ...erry's eyes did not leave her ...e were grim, cold, accusing. ...n was gathering speed, rock... way. Why had she jumped ... With a man who hated her. ... hate her. His eyes said that ... her.

... for self-control, struggled ... misery. But his eyes . . . ...king at her like that . . . ... with the hard, hurt sobs ... that has been punished, ... to cry.

"For God's sake! Look—...ything us. Do you want ... see?"

... the way a man would be ...people might see, because his ...nity might be slighted . . . ... can't help it. Oh—I wish I ... Everything unfair—you ... give me—give me a chance!" ... please! Please stop! Come ... this other car. We can't ... like this."

...llowed him miserably, her eyes ... so that people wouldn't be... they were looking at her. ... was embarrassed, uncomfortable. She loathed herself for being so weak. She gulped back the last sob, sat next to him in the rear seat of the car, folded her hands, looked straight ahead, not saying anything, not turning even.

Dignified—you couldn't be scrubbed, sitting on a train without coat or hat or bag, next to a man who scorned you, and not knowing where you were going.

She felt angry at him, angry because he had made her make a fool of herself. And now there was nothing to do but stay where she was. But he was looking at her. She pretended not to notice.

"Why did you jump on this train?" Men—they asked questions you couldn't answer, questions that had to be ignored, or met with lies.

"I had to go to Fall River. It just happened I—I saw you."

"Oh, then, you didn't jump on because—"

She was dry-eyed now. Her voice was steady, cool. "Because why?" she asked.

"Because I was getting out," he finished bluntly.

She paused, with a little flickering, amused smile. "You really thought that? You really thought I—? Oh!" She laughed.

"What were you crying for, then?" He was scowling. She ached to touch his forehead with her fingers, smooth away that frown, tell him she loved him and no one else, tell him that only by making him happy could she make herself happy, too.

"Oh, I don't know. I'm a cry-baby. I weep over anything. Why one day I cried five times for five different reasons."

He nodded. He looked a little cruel now. "I can't imagine your crying over anything except a disappointment—in one of your—your love affairs."

The words came with a snap. She winced, and her hands gripped each other. How could he, how could he say a thing like that? It was brutal. She'd never forget, never. And she'd never forgive him . . .

"Tickets, please, tickets." The conductor came slowly on his way.

Sally felt feverishly . . . her purse. She hadn't brought one.

"I—my money—I forgot my money."

Jerry gave her a swift look. She saw him paying.

"I'll send you the money right away. It's awfully kind of you." She was speaking, but it didn't seem her own voice, not her very own . . . the little cool, formal, meaningless phrases.

He shook them off. "You did get on this train because you saw me! You weren't going to Fall River or anywhere else?"

The tears—they came welling up into her eyes again. She struggled hard. She mustn't make a fool herself, not a second time. But her little tragic voice faltered and gave her away.

"Jerry, how could you—how could you say that—about—about my having love affairs. When you know—"

"Know? What do I know? I saw you in Adrian Martin's, didn't I? Hiding. Late at night. With Adrian Martin. You didn't go there to discuss Greek poetry, did you?"

"You're horrible—horrible. I—I never could hate anyone the way I hate you now."

Silence. Just the train rocking and rattling on, a child whimpering three seats ahead, a laborer asleep across the aisle, two girls giggling, whispering.

And Sally white-faced now her fingers locked together so tightly that the blood had left them.

Then all at once his mask went from him. He looked wretched and unhappy.

"Forgive me. I—I ought to be kicked. I say things to hurt you because you hurt me. Only—when you told me the other day you hadn't any money, and then I saw you—at Adrian Martin's—! Why, I've been tortured, wanting to see you, not daring to. Afraid to. I know what a fool I was now. I know everything must have been all right. But—you've made me suffer too much. I lose my head—I say things . . ."

His whisper came disjointedly, in fragments, as if springing from hard thinking, battling its way through a tide of emotion. But she couldn't forgive him, not right away, though in her heart she had forgiven him already, as she would forgive him anything.

That was the terror of it all, knowing that she cared so much, that if he hurt her, betrayed her, she would still go on caring, that if she did not see him any more, said good-by, she would not forget him.

"But you thought those things about me." She felt as if she were talking like someone who is sick, very slowly and deliberately, in a monotonous low tone. "You thought that—you didn't even give me a chance to explain!"

"I was afraid to. After seeing you there—with him. Hiding like that. I was crazy when I saw you that night—out of my head almost. Why Adrian Martin—you don't know—"

"Listen!" he said, raising his voice a little angrily. "Have you any idea of what that man . . . is like? I know—though he doesn't know that I know—about something that happened in South America, last year. He came down. There was a wealthy rancher with a beautiful wife, beautiful and . . . Adrian Martin saw her. Then one night the husband was shot in the dark, shot, killed—do you understand?"

"Oh, do you mean—"

"I mean, Adrian Martin did that. I mean that's the kind of man you visited at night and expected me not to think that—that—"

"Why don't you let me tell you why I was there?"

"Well?" Was there a lingering spark of disbelief in his voice, a suspicion that insulted her? Perversely she closed her lips. Tell him now—that she had gone to Martin to ask for a better job for Jerry, to try to help Jerry? Her pride rebelled.

"I—I won't tell you now. You've got to—to believe in me without that."

"Oh—so that's it?"

They had swung back again, and Sally felt her hostility returning, so that she longed to be anywhere, anywhere in the world except here. The train was slackening speed coming into a way station. She jumped up. He called out to her, surprised, startled. She almost ran down the steps.

"Sally!" He was calling. "Sally, I didn't mean . . ."

She was hurrying down the platform. Then the train started again. She saw him for one instant, looking back, standing on the lowest step. She had had her wish. She had gotten away from him. But now she was unhappier still!

Hemorrhoids Disappear

All Pile Misery Banished Without Cutting or Salves

External treatments seldom banish Piles and for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Heuney & Cooper, who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

One week from yesterday was Christmas, but a week from today will be the really Christmas. Sunday is the Lord's day, and anything that would come on that day is put off, my mother says, until the day after. But theaters and ball games happen on that day, just the same as on every other day, but my mother says she means important things. If going to a theater isn't important I don't know what is.

When we woke up this morning and Jubilee felt how cold it was he wiggled up closer to me, and I could feel him looking at me in the dark, and asking me with his eyes to not let him down out of the window into the cold snow. If he could hang onto the rope with his hind feet instead of with his teeth he could go down head first, and that wouldn't be so bad. A monkey could hang to the rope with his tail; or I could only open the window and he would hop out and climb down without any rope at all.

I wonder what made Younise say that about getting married. If she is going to say such things I wish she would say them when the bunch is not around. I don't know how come I thought of a monkey and then thought of Younise; maybe it was the fur she has around her neck in the winter time. She looks beautiful with the fur up around her chin, and her hat pulled down. She looks like a flower. And in the winter when there are not any flowers a flower looks mighty good. But a girl can't wear a fur around her neck always, so a fello has got to think about that. I didn't do much yesterday besides getting washed by my ant and going to Sunday school. My mother washed my father's head with gasoline to take the rest of the oil out of his hair. It was lucky for me that I didn't ast him to see if he could work my squirt gun.

We are going to have our Sunday School Christmas Tree next Sunday, and we have got so many new scholars, there is not an empty seat. The Lost Bag of Tripe wasn't there.

Today when we got to school the snow was packing good and Banty had a piece of chalk and he drew a life size picture of Mush on the basement door, and we all stood back and chunked snowballs at it, the girls and all. And we were chunking fast so as to throw as many as we could before the bell rang, and all at once the door opened and the principle stood there, and she got smothered so with snow that she fell back in Mush's wife's arms. We showed her what we were chunking at, but we all had to stay in at recess, and got a good talking to.

ANY Gift Should Be a Remembrance!

Any gift, no matter what it may be, should really be a remembrance.

After you consider beauty, comfort and usefulness, then a gift should also be a happy and constant reminder of both the giver and the occasion.

If you can add to that something that will also give pleasure to the entire family of the recipient, so much the better.

Furniture gift pieces are ideal!

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Ivatie Takes Charge

"WHEN may I interview the redoubtable Katie?" Philip Veritzen asked, smiling when we had decided that the coming Saturday would be the best time for the beach picnic Lillian had adroitly maneuvered him into giving.

"Now, if you wish," I said rising. "I'll send her in to you at once."

"I'll stay to chaperone you, Phil," Lillian said sweetly, settling herself more comfortably in her chair. "Madge probably won't care to be present while you're arranging the details of the affair. She has a sort of idea in the back of her head that some social error is being spilled somewhere. But I haven't a qualm in my system, and if Katie can't think up enough ways for you to spend your money in the picnic preparations, I'll add a few."

"You are incorrigible," I told her with reproving eyes which she met with a careless laugh. Then I went in search of Katie, telling her briefly of Lillian's plan and of Mr. Veritzen's wish to see her.

"Oh boys! a beach picnic!" She caroled this greeting of my news, then suddenly sobered.

"But, Meesis Graham," she protested, "I no can talk to dot old goat . . . He got seech sharp eyes dey look right down free my eyes to my toes. I fraid of heem. I get me all mixed oop. I no can tell heem anything you ve have to get."

"You don't need to tell him anything," I assured her. "He doesn't know anything about a beach picnic and Mrs. Underwood wishes him to be surprised. He simply will tell you how many people he's going to invite—in fact I can tell you now—there will be twelve, not counting you and Jim. You will tell him how much money the provisions for both lunch and a pirate steak will cost, and he will give it to you. You see I have nothing to do with this. It is Mr. Veritzen's party which he is giving for Mrs. Underwood. It was she who suggested that he turn the arrangements over to you. Come now. Change your apron and come to the library to see Mr. Veritzen."

She grasped my arm, clung to it as if it were a life-line.

"You not leave me in dere alone mit dot old fox?"

I gave a second to the mirthful wonder of which animal Katie would next use in her characterization of my stately employer, then released myself and stepped back.

"Don't be foolish," I admonished. "Mr. Veritzen will be very charming and gracious to you, I am sure. But Mrs. Underwood will be in the room all the time you are talking to him. Does that make you feel better?"

"Sure ting," she answered, drawing off her kitchen apron and replacing it with a coquettish little white one which she wears when answering the door. "But I feel best eef you dere."

I made no answer to this flattering comment, and she gave no further objection to the interview. It was Lillian who between chuckles gave me an account of it later when Katie had gone back to her kitchen, and Mr. Veritzen had made his adieux to us.

"It was a perfect scream," she told me. "Katie evidently was petrified with fright when she first came in, but you know how charming Phil can be when he wants to exert himself, and when Katie once got over being scared, she patronized Phil in the most delicious manner. 'You shoost leafe everyting to me,' she told him loftily. 'I feex. All you do eez set til you shake like vun bowl of jelly.' Honestly, Madge, she did—she told him that. I haven't seen him so delighted in years. He kept watching her as if she were some new specimen from the Zoo. Depend upon it, Katie will be immortalized sometime when Phil takes time enough off to write a play."

SANTA CLAUS TAKES TIME TO VISIT GIRL

Old St. Nick Also Will See That She Has Merry Christmas

The life of a Santa Claus isn't the most joyous in the world even if he does happen to have dozens of fairy workmen ready to do his bidding and only has to desert his North Pole castle once a year when he comes to Marion to make all the good little boys and girls happy.

Santa Claus, who is the guest of a group of merchants on E. Center-st, felt pretty blue when he went through his mail yesterday and found a letter from a little five-year-old girl who had been ill and couldn't even get up to see him. Worse than that, there wasn't even going to be any Christmas at her home. What she wnted more than anything else in the world was a doll and baby buggy and a job for "daddy." In case he was out of dolls and carriages anything else would do.

Santa Claus didn't puzzle long and before even taking time to wire to the North Pole for a special dolly, got in touch with some lay-Santas and now a real Christmas for the little girl is assured. Along with this he is going to take time off in his duties of visiting the stores on E. Center-st and the Grand Theater, and visit little Beatrice.

"Dear Santy:

"I am a little girl five years old. I have been sick for two weeks with pneumonia so you see I can not come up to see you. And my Papa ain't got no work for a long time. Then I won't get nothing for Christmas unless you bring me something. I would like to have a baby with long black hair and a baby buggy. If you do not have any please bring me something else. Please Santa bring my daddy some work. I would love to come up to see you Santa. But as I am sick so you see I can not. But you try and come to see me.

Your Little Friend,
Beatrice Thomas,
870 Bennett-st.

"P. S.

"I am writing this for my little sister Who has been sick. I am in the sixth grade. I want a pair of underclothes and a couple of pairs of stockings. Anything else that a boy can use. Be sure and don't forget my little sister. Robert Thomas."

MUSIC PROGRAM GIVEN BY CHOIR

Special Christmas Services Are Held at Upper Sandusky

Upper Sandusky, Dec. 19—A program of Christmas music, under the direction of Miss Helen Stecher, was given at the vesper services at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The program included "Adeste Fideles," by men's chorus; anthem "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night" by the choir; duet, "Silent Night, Holy Night," Mr. George Bowman and David Dellinger; anthem, with violin obligato by Prof. T. R. Evans, "And There Were Shepherds"; "O Little Town of Bethlehem," men's chorus; offertory "Berceuse" Mrs. Thomas McKibbeney; anthem, "Joy To the World," choir; postlude, "March Pompes," Mrs McKibbeney.

At the 7 o'clock service at Trinity Evangelical Church, the Christmas program "A Message of Victorious Peace" was given. Each department of the Sunday School was represented and the bringing of gifts to be sent to the Orphans Home at Flat Rock, was a part the service.

Rev. N. W. Sager, pastor of the church, used "The Coming of the King" as the morning message.

Holy Communio services were held at the English Lutheran Church Sunday morning, with Rev. J. H. Lastiner, dean of Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, in charge. There were no services at night.

Hold Regular Services

Regular services were held at the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. C. R. Williamson using as his topics of interesting sermons, "Christ and the Temple" and "Christianity in Earnest." There was special music at both services, by the choir and Walter Sloop sang at night services.

County Y. M. C. A. Secretary A. G. McQuate was speaker at the 7 o'clock services at Trinity Reformed Church Sunday night. He spoke on "Some Life Mottoes." Morning worship was in charge of the church pastor, Rev. George Good whose theme was "True Religion."

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force" was the topic at Christian services Sunday morning. During the remodeling of the church auditorium, these services will be held in the Sunday School Room.

Regular services were held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and at St. Peter's Catholic Church.

A series of evangelistic services were begun Sunday at Rock Run, by the pastor Rev. Berlin T. Yeager. These services will continue each night for one week.

Sunday School officers were elected at Salem Evangelical Church Sunday morning. The following officers were elected: superintendent, Henry Schilling; assistant superintendent, Roy Schoenberger; secretary, Clara Kuenzli; assistant secretary, Hazel Snyder. The pastor, Rev. A. C. Coldiron, spoke on "The New Man" Sunday night.

Thurman F. Alexander, Ohio Wesleyan University had charge of services at Eden Community Church, Sunday morning and used the theme "The Greatest Question" for his message.

81-Year-Old Motorist Drives Car Through to Florida

KENTON, Dec. 19—James R. Ansley, 81, well known resident of Ridgeway, Hardin County, has arrived at St. Cloud, Fla., where he plans to spend the winter, having made the long journey by automobile.

Accompanying Mr. Ansley on the trip was his wife, the couple having left recently from their home here. Despite his advanced age, Mr. Ansley drove the entire distance to Florida, 13 days being consumed by the journey.

Enroute he visited with a relative, George Scott, for four days and a half. With few exceptions the roads and weather were ideal. According to information received today, Mr. and Mrs. Ansley are enjoying the best of health.

KENTON HIGH BEATS COLUMBUS QUINTET

Shipp Carries Off Scoring Honors in 24 to 16 Victory

Kenton, Dec. 19—Presenting a much better appearance than in their first game a week ago against Marysville, the Kenton High School basketball team Saturday night trounced Columbus East High, 24 to 16 before a fair sized crowd in the county armory.

Starting off the contest with a rush the locals completely outclassed the downstaters and were enabled to pile up a 13 to 3 lead. They continued to pour the way during the entire first half.

The invaders staged a remarkable rally in the final half but were unable to overcome the big lead of Coach Ruckell's protegees.

Shipp carried off the honors for the winners scoring three fielders and a charitable shot for seven points while Munster did the heavy work for the capital city basketeers, registering three field goals.

The winners lined up as follows: Swarts and Burger, rf; Ansley, lf; Haggard, c; Barker, rg; Shipp, lg.

Crouse and Burke handled the forward positions for the Columbus quintet, Hopson did the coaching and Cohen and Munster were on the defense.

MAN IS CAPTURED AS HE WALKS FROM STORE

Frank Smith of Akron Placed in Mt. Gilead Jail

Mt. Gilead, Dec. 19—Frank Smith of Akron alias Frank Lee, 67, was captured yesterday morning by Night-watchman J. R. Wilson as the former was leaving the Union department store with nearly $10 in silver. He was placed in the county jail.

He is suspicioned of the robbery of the Big 4 R. R. depot here. He was formerly in the employ of Flavin Bros., plumbers, to whom he gave the name of Frank Lee. An investigation was conducted by Detective Reed of Columbus and Sheriff Tischer yesterday in behalf of the Big 4 R. R. He was in jail last night awaiting an arraignment.

DEFENDANT IS FOUND GUILTY

Second Convicted Galion Bank Bandit Receives News Calmly

Bucyrus, Dec. 19—Court officials were marking time today awaiting the lapse of the prescribed legal period of at least three days before passing sentence on Harry Zillick, Toledo, who was made the second convicted Galion Commercial Savings Bank bandit by a jury's verdict here Saturday afternoon.

It was predicted this morning that Zillick's counsel will either file a motion for a new trial or place an appeal with the district court.

Less than two hours of deliberation was necessary for the jury to reach its decision. Zillick sat unmoved as the verdict was read. Several women members of the jury showed plainly the effects of weeping.

The verdict carries a sentence of from five to 20 years in the penitentiary, it was said.

More Time Required

More than five hours was needed by the jury that considered the case of Wilbur Heisd, the first convicted bandit, to reach its decision.

W. C. Gordon, Burns detective, announced Saturday that more of the Galion bank loot had been recovered at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and that six men had been indicted in connection with receiving the bonds. Two of the six, he said, have already been convicted.

Arthur Hand, brother of Wilbur, is the third person to be arrested in connection with the $175,000 holdup. He is being held at the Crawford County jail awaiting investigation of his case by the grand jury. Wilbur is now at liberty awaiting disposition of a plea in the court of appeals.

Ban Johnson Makes Baseball Respectable Game, Then Quits

BY FRANK G. MENKE

ALL that is the physical of Ban Johnson has passed beyond the horizon of baldom.

He rules no more—because he is in retirement.

But the spirit of Ban Johnson hovers over every field of baseball battle; every stadium in America is a perpetual monument to him; every game that is played throughout this land is a vibrant testimonial to his greatness and his genius.

Made Game Respectable

For if there never had been a Ban Johnson to drag the game out of the gutters of the early part of this century, to redeem it, and to glorify it, baseball, as a national sport, perhaps long years ago, would have gone slumping into death.

In the years when Ban Johnson reigned, his brilliant leadership and his superlative honesty balked every effort to sully or defile baseball. He fought fearlessly for the game and its progress. Naturally, he made enemies of men whose interest in the game was undeniably selfish.

In disgruntled moments, they termed his methods "Johnsonism." Through the years, they attempted, by insinuation to create the impression that "Johnsonism" was something sordid base and arrogant, and should be the target for criticism and condemnation.

But "Johnsonism" is the foundation upon which now rests the national game. Remove it and the entire structure that now represents hundreds of millions of dollars and gives employment to countless tens of thousands of humans, would topple to ruins.

For "Johnsonism" ever has been from the day that Ban Johnson came into baldom, until the hour when illness forced him to resign, a mighty power for the uplift, the progress and the glorification of the sport.

Loved Game

A man of ruthless courage of moral and mental mould, grounded only by unselfish motives, a man of rugged honesty and supreme love for the game, Johnson ruled only for the betterment of the sport that he loved as no other man loved it before nor shows nor ever will again.

When Johnson, in the full glory of vigorous health, created the American League, more than 25 years ago, baseball affairs within the old National League were such that it seemed the death knell of the game soon must sound.

Conditions were deplorable; everything was near chaos.

Rowdyism ran amuck. The players battled almost as much with fists and spikes as they did through the medium of baseball. The sparse crowds that came to the fields were mainly of the rowdy element, drawn to the game because there they could bait umpires, insult or mob them and assault visiting players.

Player's salaries scaled from about $2,400 down—mostly down.

A franchise was worth about as much as yesterday's newspaper.

So it had been for several years—with each year adding to the depressing situation.

Johnson, Only, Was Big Enough

There wasn't a man in baldom of the era before Johnson, who was big enough, strong enough, to be the savior of the game.

And then came Ban Johnson and his American League—and his "Johnsonism."

Johnson's league needed players and he secured them by the simple process of offering them salaries that started at $2,400 and scaled upward to $7,000 and $8,000. So began the era of higher wages for ball players. It never ceased its upward trend until an athlete of baldom is paid approximately as much for six months of work as is paid to the president of the United States for a full year.

That was "Johnsonism."

"Baseball will be a clean and honorable sport in the American League" was another bit of early "Johnsonism" "and every game will be decided upon its merits—and not by cowing an umpire or by acts of rowdyism."

"They laughed at that bit of "Johnsonism" then; they said that it could'nt be done; sneered when Johnson said he would make the umpire the supreme power on the field of play.

But that bit of "Johnsonism" is the fundamental rule of baseball today.

When Johnson launched his league the Nationals started a vicious, grim, ills warfare upon him. They attempted to "smash Johnson and 'Johnsonism'." But within two years, Johnson had lowered them into meek and abject submission. He had them on their knees asking for mercy and peace. They—and Johnson—were in dire straits. Their attendance had slumped practically to nothingness; their players were demanding better wages with the threat of jumping.

Johnson then could have put the National League into its grave—had he so willed. But he decided that two leagues could exist prosperously—provided the game played by both was clean and honorable—and according to the American League standards.

National League Lives

So the National League eagerly accepted Ban Johnson's peace terms. It abolished rowdy tactics; it enforced fair play; it protected its umpires and made them supreme. It raised salaries of players and bettered their conditions. And thus it adopted "Johnsonism" in toto.

"Johnsonism" wafted the American League from nothingness into greatness. It enabled its club owners through 25 years to reap tens of millions in profit and to realize an appreciation of about 500 times in the value of franchise. The very same "Johnsonisms" which were the haven or the Americans in their darkest hours, accomplished exactly the same miracle for the National League.

Illness forced Ban Johnson to the sidelines. No longer does he physically rule or lead; no longer is he a dominant personal factor in the game.

But "Johnsonism"—the thing he was and is Ban Johnson, remains to rule and dominate and make for the betterment and the greater prosperity of the game.

And so it shall be through all the ourishing years.

COMMERCIAL - OSGOOD WILL CLASH WITH BUSINESS COLLEGE

Both Outfits Have Two Victories So Far in League

There will be but one undefeated team in the Industrial basketball league after the games tonight. The reason for that is that the Commercials Osgood and the Business College teams will clash in the opening game of tonight's entertainment.

Both teams have checked in two victories so far but tonight one of them must go into the defeated column, barring the slight possibility of the game being called with the score tied.

This game will be the curtain raiser of the show tonight and will start at 7:15 o'clock. The second game will be between the Gardner Tap and Die-Silk Mill team and the Malleable outfit. The General Excavator will meet Hubers in the last game of the evening. The C., H. & M. team will be idle.

Foul Blow in Fourteenth Round of Tod Morgan Fight Is Reason

New York, Dec. 19—Unless the New York Boxing Commission takes steps tomorrow to force a return match between Tod Morgan and Joe Glick, it isn't likely the junior lightweight champion will meet Glick again.

Morgan might not have won last Friday night had the fight gone fifteen rounds. A majority of ringside scorers hold that Glick was so far in front that he could not have lost the verdict even if he had dropped the last two rounds.

The officials were spared the trouble of making a close decision when Glick's glove landed on Morgan's trunks in the fourteenth round and he was disqualified.

Glick will be formally suspended by the Boxing Commission tomorrow.

Break Alley Record in Match with Lima Elks

Rolling a 3136 match said to be the biggest score ever rolled by a Marion bowling team in or out of the city, the Bradley Drugs toppled the Lima Elks at Lima in a week-end match. The locals all went over 900 with the exception of Schuler, who was 17 pins under the mark. The first game went at 1083, the second at 1061 and the last at 992. The Elks rolled 2895. The match was rolled on the Elk alleys. The score broke the alley records.

Landis To Settle Dispute

CALVARY RECREATION BALL TEAM GIVEN TROPHY YESTERDAY

John H. Clark Says Team Is "Best in City" in Making Presentation

John H. Clark, president of the Marion Recreational Baseball Commission, presented Calvary Evangelical Sunday School with the pennant for winning the championship in Sunday School League No. One, and the loving cup the gift of the Spaulding Athletic Equipment Co., for winning the Little World Series. The trophies were accepted in behalf of the Sunday School and team by Dr. W. L. Johnson, superintendent of the Sunday School.

A baseball supper, given by Manager J. W. Harruff and Superintendent Johnson for members of the team and their guests will be held tonight at the Community Home, S. High-st.

Mr. Clark complimented the team on the following of rooters they had and on the enthusiasm maintained throughout the season. "In any game Epworth played we had the rooters outnumbered except in the games with Calvary," he stated. "You not only won the championship in Sunday School League No. 1, but also won the cup by having the best team in the Little World Series. You also proved yourselves to be the best team in the city by defeating the leading independent team in a series of games."

Stecher vs. Lewis

Title Claimants Will Settle Question in St. Louis in February

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19—After seven years of ballyhoo and of shouting by local promoters, the long-heralded "championship" wrestling match between Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher, will be held here Feb. 20, it was announced today.

The event is designed to settle the question "who is heavyweight champion?" Both Lewis and Stecher claim the title.

A film play makes money by showing it to 20,000,000 people; a stage play makes it by showing it every day for two years.

Controversy Between Major, Minor Leagues Placed Before Judge

Little Minors Claim "Misdeal" in Draft Plan; Want Definite Settlement Before Next Season Opens; Plan of Final Settlement Unknown

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—With Judge Landis acting as mediator and final court of appeal, a new major minor agreement, amicable to all baseball, is in the process of being drafted, the writer learned today. The contract will be ready for signature within a month, at which time it will be duly signed by all concerned, I am informed, and once more peace will reign in this most turbulent of families.

No Ringside Seat

The decision to leave the draft controversy in the hands of the Judge was reached at the major league meetings here last week when the little minors found themselves in possession of a perfectly good resolution and very little to "resolute" about. They had neither the majors nor the big minors with them, which meant that they were out on a limb and it wasn't bird's eye maple, either.

When you find yourself in that position, you climb down when invited. So they "climb", as we say at the grocery grocer's.

In consequence, they had no alternative but to abide by the compromise suggested, which in effect called for a general acceptance of any logical plan advanced by Landis. It will be submitted for formal approval, I am informed, to Presidents Barnard and Heydler, of the American and National leagues respectively, and to President Mike Sexton, of the Minor League Association, thus bringing all contending factors to a common focus.

Just what the nature of the plan may be at this time nobody seems to know, I doubt whether the Judge does, either. All anyone can forecast is that the completed agreement must be a concession to the little minors because they are the ones who are taking the slap from the existing modified draft.

Hard Hit

They are subject to an insistent pull on this from both the majors and big minors and between the two, all they have left at the end of a season is the uniforms of a lot of pretty fair ball players used to wear. The funny part about the entire controversy is that the major leagues cannot get along without these little fellows any more than the latter can get along without the majors.

A situation of that kind would seem to call for the closest kind of co-operation, but so far the stronger leagues have been co-operating like a lot of insurance agents. They dont want much, they say; only the best of it.

Perhaps, at that, they are entitled to the break because of their larger investment. It, then, simply resolves itself into a question of how much of a break they are entitled to. It is to be hoped that the new agreement will give them that much and more.

FLASHY TRACK STAR TO RUN FOR CANADA

Is British Subject and Cannot Compete for United States in Olympics

New York, Dec. 19—Phil Edwards, flashy New York University track star and national junior half mile champion, will compete for Canada in the coming Olympics, it was decided by the A. A. U. today. It was disclosed by the A. A. U. that Edwards is a West Indian and has been in this country several years. He has not been here long enough, however, to be made a citizen, which automatically eliminates him from possible participation in the Olympic games.

Being a British subject, Edwards does not want to lose his chance to compete in the coming Olympic games so has decided to enlist under the Canadian colors.

He expressed regret over the death of four cardinals in the past seven months and over the resignation of the aged Cardinal Billot from the College of Cardinals. He referred to Cardinal Billot's resignation by saying that "it was induced by such high spiritual reasons that after prayers for guidance, we thought it our duty to grant the request."

The fact that none of the new cardinals is an Italian led to belief in some quarters that a new move may be foreshadowed in the "Roman question."

The red hats, insignia of the cardinalate, will be conferred upon the new cardinals at a public consistory on Wednesday.

COURT WILL PROBE SUBMARINE SINKING

Will Get Under Way as Soon as Rescue Operations Are Completed

Washington, Dec. 19—A court of inquiry to determine responsibility for the tragic sinking of the submarine S-4 will get under way just as soon as the present rescue operations are completed, Navy officials said today.

Until the hulk of the unseeing boat can be raised from the sea floor, and the stories of survivors, if there are to be any, can be obtained, Navy officials are withholding comment as to the responsibility for the crash. Coast guard officials were destroyer Paulding rammed the submarine, are similarly silent, awaiting developments.

Thought results to the Navy from the scene of the rescue operations off the Massachusetts coast told of the enormous difficulties under which the divers and salvage personnel are working. The weather is worse and the sea rougher now than which compelled a halt two years ago when the S-51 sank off Block Island the reports said.

Officials were greatly cheered today over the Sunday reports that at least six men were alive in the motor compartment of the vessel yesterday. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who remained at his desk at the Navy Department most of Sunday, immediately telephoned the good news to President Coolidge at the White House.

From descriptions of the accident and the damage to the hull, Navy experts are inclined to believe there is not much hope for the other members of the crew.

MARION MAN IS HELD AT BOWLING GREEN

Charles A. Mills and Kenton Youth Charged with Drug Store Burglary

Charles A. Mills, 23, this city, and Harold L. Burton, 21, Brunn-st, Kenton, are under arrest at Bowling Green today where they were taken yesterday following their arrests in Columbus late Saturday.

Both men were brought to Marion Sunday by Bowling Green officials who checked with local police to see if they were wanted in Marion for any offense.

Mills and Dalton are charged with burglary and grand larceny in connection with the looting of a drug store at Bradner, Wood County, near Bowling Green. The robbery, police report show, was committed the night of Dec. 14.

The Kenton man, officials said, confessed that he and two companions had burglarized the store, but stoutly maintained that the Marion man was not with them.

POLICE SEEK MAN WHO ABANDONED CAR

Driver of Car Disappears Following Crash at Park-blvd and Center-st

Police today are looking for an unidentified man who abandoned a Hudson sedan belonging to A. H. Monaban, N. State-st, at the intersection of W. Center-st and Park-blvd yesterday morning after he had crashed into an Essex parked on the boulevard opposite Center-st.

The driver of the Hudson, who is said by the owner to have taken the machine without his knowledge, was going north on Park-blvd at a high rate of speed and crashed into the Essex. The driver leaped from the car and made his escape before a crowd collected. The Hudson escaped with a damaged bumper, while a wheel was crushed and the runningboard of the Essex was broken.

COMPILING REPORT ON AUTO TAG FUNDS

Distribution of Fees in County To Be Completed in Short Time

Distribution of Marion County's share of automobile license fees to the various subdivisions in the county for 1927 will be completed within a short time, according to the announcement of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, who today was compiling his report for the year.

The exact amount of money to be received by the various districts will not be known until after the first of the year, it was said, in view of the fact that all licenses for machines sold here are being issued from the state registrar's office.

Sale of tags in Marion was stopped several days ago. Distribution of tags in districts in the county outside the city was stopped several months ago.

KIRKPATRICK CHURCH HOLDS CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

Kirkpatrick, Dec. 19—The Christmas bazaar held in the basement of the M. E. Church on Friday night under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was well attended. Refreshments consisting of soup, pie, doughnuts and coffee were served.

The proceeds from the sale of two chickens donated by G. W. Egger, went to the society. The chickens will be sent to the Henderson Settlement School of Kentucky.

FEAST IS CELEBRATED

Members of the Jewish congregation celebrated Chanukah, Feast of Lights with appropriate services last night in the temple rooms, E. Center-st. The services were in charge of Henry Strelitz and were well attended. Celebration of the feast will continue throughout the week.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Sees Golden Harvest in Year Ahead

Markets at a Glance

Railroad stocks, inactive; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, steady; call money, 4 per cent, grain, steady; copper, firm; oil, firm; cotton, steady; rubber, steady, sugar, steady; pig iron, firm; foreign exchange, irregular.

New York, Dec 19 - After reaching a higher level of prices in active trading today, the industrial and specialty stocks were subjected to heavy profit-taking and speculative selling, as the result of which prices dipped irregularly below the level of Saturday's close. Professionals stirred up a lively interest in a few of the high priced specialties, and outside buying orders poured in for the copper, oil and motor stocks. Rails were again inactive but steady.

At this time of year practically everything is known about the current year's accomplishments in various departments of domestic business, and speculation is largely tied up with the prospects of the forthcoming year. If business fulfills the expectations and forecasts of the leaders of finance business as published today through the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, there will be more than enough prosperity to meet the requirements of every optimist in this country.

What is generally described as "the best buying," that is, the accumulation of stock by powerful interests, was reported today in American Can International Paper, General Motors, American Smelting and other standard dividend payers. Short coverings in the oils forced prices higher, but there have been so many "false starts, in the oil shares that it has been difficult to build up a public "following" on them. The rails were inactive and the equipment stocks entered only casually into the activities of the day. In spite of the brilliant record of the industrials stocks as a whole, the lowest prices of the year were quoted for a number of well known stocks, including the pan-American oils.

Cotton

New York, Dec. 19—Cotton prices declined 10 to 15 points at the opening of this market today. December sold at 18.83, down 10; January 18.73, down 15; March 18.98, down 11; May 19.10, down 10 and July 19.11, down 11.

Rubber.

New York, Dec. 19—Trading in the outside market for crude rubber futures was quiet with prices firm. Sellers asked 39¾ cents for spot and December ribbed smoked sheets, 39⅞ cents for January; 40 cents for January-March, 40⅛ cents for April-June.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

This morning found markets reporting stocks reduced to Saturday's basis in anticipation of the usual heavy buying of Christmas week. Prices promise to remain fairly steady although it is expected that the usual specials will be offered by various dealers. Christmas trees were plentiful today and were selling fairly well at 50c to $1.25. Holly continues scarce and dealers report a light sale at 40 cents for the berry and 35 cents for wreaths. Nuts of all kinds are plentiful at prices slightly in advance of last year. English walnuts are selling today at 25 to 30 cents, Brazil nuts, 25 to 40 cents, pecans 15 to 75 cents and almonds at 30 to 50 cents. Dealers report sales heavy. Sweet potatoes were not so plentiful today and were selling at three pounds for 25 cents for Jerseys and 10 pounds for 25 cents for home grown. Dealers were carrying a few green peas Saturday that were selling slowly at 25 cents a pound.

Cranberries are plentiful and dealers report a heavy sale Saturday in spite of the peak price of 25 cents. Oranges are being offered at a wide range of prices. Small Florida varieties are selling at 25 for 25 cents and navel oranges at 25 to 50 cents. California grapes are plentiful and were selling today at 12½ to 15 cents a pound. Bananas are holding at 10 cents a pound.

Retail meat dealers report prices steady with buying heavy. No prospects for an immediate advance was reported by dealers this morning.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Dec 19—Broad buying interest was lacking in the wheat market during the past week's trade, and the sharp losses encountered Tuesday and Wednesday were not recovered, although the market firmed somewhat. Interest slackened on all the bulges and the pressure of liquidation eased prices, creating a choppy trend. At the close Saturday, net losses for the week were 2½@3c, with the December at $1.26⅞ and the May $1.30⅝.

It was also pointed out that although the Canadian crop is the largest in the history of that country, most of the wheat was of poorer quality. European demand is mainly for good quality wheat to mix with their own poor yield.

Export purchases were mainly confined to Manitobas, however, but the Southwest reported and improving demand or Gulf exports. Cash demand in the local market showed some improvement with sales to millers. The milling demand is excellent for good qualities.

Argentine offerings and shipments, though continuing heavy, were of lighter grade Plate wheat, with the shippers willing to pay penalties for the decreased weight

Corn Off Sharply

Corn met the heaviest decline of any of the grains. Apparently it was the result of prevailing bearish local sentiment, which in the face of a lighter volume of trade made pressure more quickly felt by the market. There was good commission house buying on the low spots, but it failed to follow the rallies. On all the upturns there was heavy liquidation, and the trend was choppy.

With interest narrow and mainly confined to the trade, the market was quick to respond to either buying or selling. Heavy deliveries on December contracts caused a drag early in the week, but these lightened toward the close

FINGERPRINTS OF TWINS ARE FOUND TO BE ALIKE

Chicago, Dec. 19 Discovery of cases in which one twin seemingly "is not quite complete without the other" was one of the findings announced here by Professor H. H. Newman of the University of Chicago, who has just completed an extensive study of more than 100 cases of twins.

"Among identical twins—that is, twins who are very much alike in appearances, mannerisms and thought," Professor Newman stated, "one seems in many cases to have developed a sort of leadership over the other. It seems that there is many times one to whom the other looks for leadership and advice."

Professor Newman stated that he had discovered a remarkable similarity in the finger prints of twins. While the entire finger print system in use by the police department of all large cities is built around the theory that no two human beings have finger prints identical with one another, Professor Newman stated that the finger prints of "identical" twins often so nearly approximate each other as to be in all practical purposes "alike."

Salvation Army Post Plans To Distribute 50 Baskets

Approximately 50 Christmas baskets will be distributed by the Salvation Army of Marion it was announced today by Captain Percy Holden. Officials of the Work of investigating the homes from which applications have been received began this morning and will continue through the week. The baskets will be made up of donations from the merchants of the city and individual contributions. Any one having donations to make to the army for the baskets are requested to telephone 2091 or 7105 and they will be called for Tuesday or Friday. A check is being made with the Red Cross and a number of other organizations in order to avoid duplication of Christmas baskets and relief.

Calls for shelter at the army headquarters during the recent cold spell in the past three weeks more than 100 men have been cared for in shelter at the rear of the salvation Army Hall. About 65 persons have received meals last week assistance and shelter were given a family consisting of the father, mother and two children, who were from Ohio.

The sum of $100 was reported so far by the Salvation Army kettles which are being placed on the streets daily by the army workers. The kettles will remain on the streets until after Christmas Eve, it is announced.

TAKEN HOME

Mrs. J. T. Laking was removed from Grant Hospital Columbus to her home, 324 N. State st. yesterday afternoon. She recently underwent a major operation but is reported to be improving nicely.

CHESS CHAMPION

Dr Alexander Alekhine (above), Russian chess master, is now the world's best chess player. He defeated Jose Capablanca, former champion, 6 to 3, at Buenos Aires in the thirty-fourth game of the match which started September 16.

COMMISSIONERS SET HEARINGS ON DITCHES

Three Improvements To Be Considered by Board Early This Week

Three ditch improvement hearings have been scheduled by the Marion County Board of Commissioners for the next three days. All have been set to open at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Hearing on the Shumaker ditch improvement near Martel is scheduled for Tuesday. Commissioners will consider the proposed improvement of the Beckel Ditch in Richland Township Wednesday.

Hearing on the Gorenflo-Green Ditch improvement in Pleasant Township which opened a short time ago will be continued Thursday morning, it was announced.

RHEUMATIC PAIN VANISHED SINCE SHE GOT KONJOLA

Another Marion Lady Says She Is Relieved of Years Suffering.

"A few weeks ago I never thought any medicine would end my suffering, but this Konjola has given me wonderful relief from all the pains that I suffered, in such quick time, that I was surprised," said Mrs. Nina Fritch, well known Marion resident, living at 107 Fris Ave., this city, while talking with the Konjola Man a few days ago at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is personally explaining this remarkable compound to large crowds daily.

MRS. NINA FRITCH

"Several years ago I got my first touch of rheumatism," said Mrs. Fritch "I had been doctoring and taking things for myself, but each time the pain came back they would be worse, until finally I could hardly stand the misery I was suffering. The pains would center in my back and felt like sharp knives gouged into my back. My hips and legs were effected, and the joints of my ankles and knees were swollen. At times I couldn't walk a step without holding on to something. I got so bad that I couldn't sleep at night and usually by morning I was so stiff and achy all over that I felt that I would never be able to get out of bed.

"I started taking Konjola and it proved to be the only medicine that helped me so I kept on with it until now the rheumatism is vanished, and I am entirely relieved of my suffering, for the first time in years. My back never gives me any trouble and my hips and legs are limbering up so that I can get around fine. The swelling is gone from the ankles and knees and I am sleeping so good at night that I have twice the energy in the mornings and I am now able to do all my own house work. I can walk for a good distance and not feel the slightest pain.

Besides ending my rheumatism, Konjola cleared up my stomach trouble and invigorated my whole system so that I am feeling better now than I have in years. I will always be glad to tell anyone who calls, how Konjola helped me."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Ads.

GETS WORD OF DEATH

Mrs. Jesse Phelps, Gincer-ar, received word Saturday of the death of Jesse Gee of Sharpsburg, who was her husband, formerly known as Mrs. Gee before her marriage two years ago was Miss Beira Corpe of Sharpsburg but had resided with Mr. Phelps for several months prior to marriage.

One way you know what people want, is by listening to those who are always telling everything about everybody else.

SIMON L. FIELDS DIES IN HOSPITAL

Body of Prominent LaRue Farmer Will Be Buried Tuesday

LaRue, Dec. 19—The body of Simon L. Fields, 75, was brought to his late home here Sunday in preparation for burial services Tuesday. Mr. Fields died at City Hospital, Marion, Sunday noon following an operation five weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the LaRue Methodist Church, with Rev. J. K. Carter officiating. Burial will be made in Prive Cemetery.

Simon L. Fields was born near Richwood, Aug. 28, 1852. He was the son of Thomas J. and Nancy Fields. He was never married and survivors include two sisters, Mrs. W. F. Meese of Saginaw, Mich. and Mrs. E. L. Smeltzer and one brother, John Field of LaRue. Mr. Fields was a retired farmer and very prominent in affairs of this community.

HOME BURNS WHILE FAMILY IS ABSENT

Waldo Residence of Harold Smith Destroyed by Fire Saturday Night

Waldo, Dec. 19—Fire believed to have started from a defective flue destroyed the farm home of Harold Smith, four miles east of here Saturday night at about 7 o'clock.

The Smith family was in Marion at the time of the fire. The blaze was not discovered by neighbors until part of the roof and second floor of the dwelling had been consumed. Furnishings on the first floor of the structure were saved. The entire building and the second floor contents were destroyed.

The loss, it was reported, is partially covered by insurance.

Churches Here In Midst of Christmas

MIDNIGHT RITES FOR ST. PAUL'S

Yuletide Season Parties Planned by Many Local Congregations

With cantatas, pageants and programs of a varied nature as well as with two outstanding church services and the usual holiday treats for Sunday School children, Christmas will be observed this week and next Sunday in Marion churches.

Perhaps the most unusual of the observances are a midnight eucharist on Christmas eve at St. Paul's Episcopal Church and a "candlelight service" at 6:30 o'clock Christmas morning at St. Paul's English Lutheran Church. The latter service, being arranged by the Luther League of the church, will be followed by the serving of breakfast. The public has been extended an invitation to attend.

The "midnight" service at the Episcopal Church will begin at 11 p. m. Saturday, Dec. 24, with the singing of Christmas carols and hymns, followed by a Holy Communion service. In place of a sermon there will be a symbolic procession of the choir, also to be heard in special music under the direction of Ernest C. Carl. There will be no services Christmas Day.

Party for Others

The annual "Christmas party" for others given by the Episcopal Church School, will be held on Thursday, Dec. 29 at the church parish house. About 100 needy children of the city will be guests of the church school children, sharing a Christmas treat with them. Miss Mary Lee Conklin is in charge. A Christmas party for the parish will be held on the Feast of the Holy Innocents, Dec. 28, at the church.

Masses Scheduled

Masses will be celebrated continually from 5 to 10 o'clock Christmas morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church by the pastor, Rev. F. X. Cotter, and his assistant, Rev. John Hanahan and Rev. Dean McFarland. There will be a Christmas service at night.

Festival Sermon

A festival sermon will be preached Christmas morning at Emanuel's Lutheran Church by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Schillinger while at night the young people of the church will present a pageant, "Worship the King," also in charge of Reverend Schillinger.

Service in Song

A "Christmas service in song" will be given next Friday night, at 7:30 o'clock, at Oakland Evangelical Church with numbers by the choir, quartet and soloists. Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor, will preach a Christmas sermon on the following Sunday.

A Christmas program in which about 50 young people of Emmanuel Baptist Sunday School are to take part will be presented at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the church. Mrs. John Long, Mrs. Don Orahood, Mrs. Kenneth Burke, Mrs. Earl L. Holliday and Miss Virginia Repair are directing the presentation. There is to be special music by the church choir on Christmas morning.

On the same night a miscellaneous program in which each class of the Sunday School will take part will be given at Greenwood Evangelical Church. A Christmas sermon will be preached by Rev. Irvin Kauffman, pastor, on the following Sunday morning.

Musical Program

Observance of Christmas at First Church of Nazarene, will take the form of a presentation of a musical program, "The Kingly One" at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Dec. 25 at the church. The program to be given by the choir under the direction of Mrs. James Fies, will include the following numbers, "Come With the Shepherds" by a male chorus, a solo, "Star of Christmas Morn" by Miss Mabel Payne, an anthem, "Good Tidings" by the choir, a duet, "There is Room in My Heart for Thee" by Mrs. Fies and Miss Payne and an anthem, "Christ Is Born in Bethlehem" by the choir. The choir will also assist in giving a children's program on Christmas eve and will be heard in special musical numbers at the service the following Sunday night.

Children's Program

A Christmas program will be presented by the children of the Sunday School and young people at 7:30 o'clock next Friday night at First Reformed Church and the following Sunday Rev. Herbert E. Werkmueller, pastor, will preach the Christmas sermon.

Christmas services at First Presbyterian Church include presentation of a cantata, "The Coming of the King" Sunday night, Dec. 25, at the church. Charles Collmer, choir director, is in charge. At 10:30 o'clock Christmas morning at Wesley M. E. Church, a Christmas program will be presented and new members will be received into the church. At night Rev. George A. Whitlock, pastor, will conclude a series of "Sermons from Palestine" with his address on "Bethlehem", based on knowledge of the Holy Land he gleaned from a recent visit there.

To Close Series

With his sermon "The Chimes of Bethlehem" Rev James M. Fisher will bring to a close a series of sermons on the general theme, "The Christmas Chimes" at a Christmas service Sunday night, Dec. 25, at Lee Street Presbyterian Church. A Christmas entertainment will be given at the church at 7 o'clock Friday night and will consist of a program of songs and recitations. At 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at First United Brethren Church a Christmas service will be held.

A "white gift Christmas" program will be given by the Sunday School of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church next Thursday night as a part of the church Christmas observance. Mrs. J. D. Jacobs is in charge of the presentation.

As a holiday festivity at Prospect Street M. E. Church, the young people of the Sunday School will give a pageant "Messengers from Bethlehem" there at 7:30 o'clock Christmas night, the public being cordially invited to attend. Children of the beginners' and primary departments of the school will give Christmas program during the Sunday School session in the morning.

To Present Play

About 20 young people of the Church of Brethren are presenting a play, "The Puck's Gift" in connection with their Christmas program Sunday night, Dec. 25 at the church instead of the usual service. There will be an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. R. Shively, Christmas morning. A junior church service was held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the church at which time Reverend Shively will preached a children's Christmas sermon.

Kuhlman's "Birth of Christ," a pageant, will be given possibly Christmas night at Fite Memorial Church at a Christmas service. The selection, in which about 50 students of the Sunday School are to take part, will be in charge of Mrs. Lawrence Hatcher, Mrs. Ora Dusang, Mrs. Warren McMahan, and Mrs. Wiley S. Young. There will be a Christmas treat at the same time.

A spectacular pageant, "The Prophecy of Bethlehem," in which about 100 children of the Sunday School took part featured the Christmas observance at Epworth M. E. Church. The entertainment was given there at 7:00 o'clock Sunday night in place of the cantata, "The Prince of Peace," scheduled to have been presented on the same date and cancelled due to the illness of the director, W. E. Orcutt. About 1,800 persons attended the presentation in which Miss Nannette Newby as "Mary" and Miss Margaret Adams the Angel Gabriel played outstanding roles.

Five Scenes

A colorful painting of Bethlehem, nine by 24 feet long, was hung at the front end of the church, and furnished an attractive background for the Epworth Sunday School pageant. The Christmas story is told in five scenes, the first, the Annunciation; second, picturing the arrival of the taxpayers; third, the watch of the shepherds; and the fourth, Herod's court and the arrival of the wise men and the fifth and concluding scene, the manger at Bethlehem. The fourteen musical numbers were under the direction of Earl Ruhlman and the remainder of the presentation in charge of Raymond F. Fletcher, Mrs. T. J. Mills, Mrs. Homer Waddell and Mrs. George Turney Myers.

Others assisting with the pageant were Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, church organist, and the Sunday School Orchestra, directed by William Dowler. Particular attention had been given the elaborate costuming and colorful lighting effects.

In closing Mrs. Frank Sifritt conducted a "white gift service." Sunday morning all departments of the Sunday School enjoyed special Christmas programs and treats, short programs, appropriate to Christmas given at the Sunday School session on Christmas Sunday.

Miss Isabel Uncapher and Miss Helen King directed a Christmas pageant, "The Light from Bethlehem" by H. Augustine Smith presented as a Christmas observance at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night at Trinity Baptist Church. The pageant was divided into four scenes the prophecy of the coming of the Messiah, the manger at Bethlehem, the vision of Isaiah and the one in which the light from Bethlehem "spreads into all the world."

The cast included Mrs. Elizabeth Milligan and Misses Helen King and Mildred Hautz, prophets; Misses Desdamae Winders, Evelyn Bachelder, and Bernita LeMasters, magii; Miss Emily Dale Wingett, the madonna; Misses Grace Stockman, Lucile Lowery and Cirelda Yazel, angels; Misses Violet Miller, Margaret Gassler and Ilsen Krause, shepherds; Miss Katheryn Rice, spirit of Christianity; Misses Marguerite Van Atta and Martha McKeever, heralds; Miss Mildred McKeever, flag bearer; Misses Helen Martin and Juanita Holland, attendant; and the following shield bearers, Mrs. Beatrice Secord, Mrs. Elto Myers, Mrs. Geraldine Shirk and the Misses Dorothy Gill, Marie Hamner, Norma Parker, Nelle Hinklin, Eileen Martin, Caroline Miller, Elsie Barger and Gail Gorman and Isadore Dix. The audience joined in a recessional hymn, "Joy to the World."

Eighteen persons took part in a cantata, "The Christmas King," directed by W. B. Long given at 7 o'clock Sunday night at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church as a Christmas observance. On Christmas day Rev. John A. Carriker, pastor, will preach in the morning on the subject, "The Christmas King" and at night another Christmas sermon on the theme, "From the Star to the Cross." There will be special music at both services.

Students of the primary department of Calvary Evangelical Church gave their Christmas program Sunday morning at the church while a children's "white gift service" is to be held at 7:30 o'clock Christmas night at Salem Evangelical Church.

One of the most enjoyable yuletide observances was a "Christmas choral vesper service" presented by the choir of Emanuel's Lutheran Church under the direction of Ernst C. Carl, choirmaster, last night at the church. Mrs. William Ackerman, organist, assisted with the instrumental accompaniment and Rev. J. W. Schillinger, pastor, with devotionals.

The program included an organ prelude, "Prelude to the Coming of the King," Dudley Buck, the singing of five traditional English carols, "Good Christian Men Rejoice," "Good King Wenceslas," "The First Nowell," "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," and "What Child Is This?" A traditional Spanish carol, "O Bethlehem" was sung by Mr. Carl after which as an offertory Mrs. Ackerman played the pastoral symphony from "Messiah," Handel, and an anthem, "Let Us Now Go Even Unto Bethlehem," Woodman, was sung by the choir. Reverend Schillinger gave a "Mediation on a German Carol" after which the choir sang "Silent Night, Holy Night" and the program concluded with an anthem, Christmas Fantasie on Old Carols," Heltz, including, "Good Christian Men; God Rest You, Merry; French Dance Carol"; and "The First Nowell."

CHILDREN DIE IN QUEBEC ORPHANAGE FIRE

Thirty-seven bodies recovered and others buried beneath the debris of the St. Charles Hospice is the death toll of the most destructive fire in the history of modern Quebec. With one exception the bodies of those recovered were those of girls ranging in age from four to nine years.

BUCYRUS MAN FINED

William Briggs Assessed $200, Costs in Local Court

Found guilty by Probate Judge L. B. McNeal on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, William Briggs, Bucyrus taxi driver, was fined $200 and costs following a hearing in Marion County Probate Court this morning.

The action against Briggs was brought by John Cowgill, N. Main-st, this city, on behalf of his daughter, Lila Cowgill. It was charged that Briggs encouraged Miss Cowgill to absent herself from her home here for more than a week and that he had supplied her with liquor.

Briggs was released when he arraigned to pay the fine and costs in the case.

ALL-DAY RITES TO BE HELD AT CHURCH

Prayer Services Will Be Held at Calvary Evangelical Church Wednesday

Announcement was made of an all-day prayer service Wednesday at Calvary Evangelical Church at the service there last night. Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor, will speak Wednesday night on the Beatitudes and those who attend the service during the day are requested to register.

In an unusual sermon on "Jonah and the Whale" preached by Reverend Radebaugh at the service last night, he said in part, "God requested Jonah to go to Nineveh and the latter refused, getting himself into trouble as we do when we ignore God's wishes. There are two lines of travel, the line of duty done and that of duty shirked. When we travel the former we are blessed but traveling the latter only results in difficulties sooner or later."

"We cannot deceive God," he continued, "for whatsoever we sow that shall we also reap!" A man's sins will be brought to light eventually unless covered by the blood of Christ. When we travel the wrong road we always jeopardize someone else even as Jonah jeopardized the lives of those on board the ship when he tried to run away from God's command. We may not need to have a whale swallow us to be wakened up to our Christian duties, but some time God will wake men and some will waken too late. We will have to pay for every warning given that is not heeded, man's supreme sin being rejection of Christ. There are those who come within sight of the goal who are cast down into the sea of destruction because they heeded not the warnings of God."

The men's chorus sang "I Walk with the Lord" and the choir sang as a special number, "Wonderful Grace."

FIVE DOGS SEIZED HERE BY WARDEN DURING WEEK

Five dogs were taken into custody, four were killed and one given away, according to the report of County Dog Warden Dale Rhoads for last week, filed today with the Marion County Board of Commissioners. No sheep losses were reported.

REPORTED IMPROVED

John Henderson, who has been ill of bronchial pneumonia at his home, 738 Gill-av, for the past 10 days, is reported slightly improved today.

Time is short—only a few days left. Do not neglect yourself. Make this Christmas a happy one for yourself as well as for others by "dressing up." Be in style and be happy.
